REPORT 1000 KILLED AS VOLCANO ERUPTS

LONDON, Aug. 9.—One thousand persons were reported killed and 600 injured in a violent eruption of the volcano Rokotinda on the island of Paloweh, off the Malay Peninsula, according to a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam this afternoon quoting reports received there from the Dutch East Indies.

The eruption, according to the Central News message, was accompanied by a series of terrific earthquake shocks. Six villages were said to have been destroyed.

A large section of the seaboard was submerged and nine trading vessels were sunk.

The quake threw up mighty waves which rolled shoreward leaving destruction in their wake.

FLYER KILLED

MAURICE DROUHIN

MAURICE DROUHIN, FAMED FRENCH ACE, FATALLY CRUSHED

Mechanic Killed Outright As Plane Falls In Trial.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—Maurice Drouhin, noted French aviator, died today from injuries received when the tri-motored monoplane "Rainbow" in which he was to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight next week crashed to the ground at Orly Flying Field during a trial flight.

Drouhin's mechanic, Lanet, was killed outright in the crash. Two others aboard the plane, Glancon, an engineer and Manuel, a radio operator, were injured. Glancon is said to be in a serious condition.

The crash was viewed by Rene Couzinet, designer of the plane, and Joseph Lebriz, French World flier, who was to have accompanied Drouhin on his trans-Atlantic attempt as navigator. Couzinet had been aboard the plane on all its previous flights and had stayed on the ground this time "because he wanted to see the plane in the air." Lebriz missed going up in the plane because he arrived at the flying field late. Both were deeply shocked by the tragedy.

BUSINESS MAN DIES ON HONEYMOON TOUR

BELFAST, Ireland, Aug. 9.—Charles Rutherford Crouch, a business man of New York and Erie, Pa., died of pneumonia today while on a honeymoon tour of Europe. His wife was at his bedside when he died.

Crouch's body will be embalmed and shipped to New York aboard the liner Franconia on Saturday. Crouch was described as a banker and mill owner. His home was at Erie, although his business interests compelled him to spend a great deal of time in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Crouch had decided to return to New York on Aug. 4 but cancelled this plan when they found they could not get adjoining cabins on the liner Mauretania. While waiting for a later ship they decided to make a sight seeing trip to the Killarney Lake region. While boating a shower came up and Crouch's clothing was soaked. He was forced to row twelve miles before he could get into dry clothing. He caught a severe cold which developed into pneumonia. He died at a hospital in this city.

SERIOUSLY HURT

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—Daniel Ross, 45, Zanoville, is in Mt. Carmel Hospital here today with a possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries, suffered when he was struck by a taxicab last night, according to hospital authorities. His injuries are regarded as serious.

REPORT JOBE STORE SOLD

XENIA DEPARTMENT STORE INVOLVED IN BUSINESS DEAL HERE

Outside Interests Acquire Leading Dry Goods Firm

Rumored sale of the Jobe Bros., department store, E. Main St., to outside interests, was apparently given credence Thursday when incorporation papers were granted the Jobe Brothers Company in Columbus.

The new corporation is capitalized at $50,000 with Thomas Lewis, Frank E. Gregg and James A. King, as incorporators.

Mr. Gregg and Mr. Lewis are said to be eastern men, while Mr. King is connected with Marshall Field Company of Chicago. The purchase is understood to have been made for their own company and is not connected with any other organization.

C. L. Jobe, who has operated the Jobe Bros. store alone since the death of his brother, Riley Jobe, an original partner in the enterprise, a number of years ago, declined to make a statement Thursday, saying one of the new incorporators would be in Xenia Thursday or Friday, at which time a formal statement, explaining the change, would be issued for publication.

The store has long been one of the leading dry goods and department stores of Greene County. It was established in its present location, in a room half the width of the present store, and later expanded to its present proportions. Several years ago the building was entirely remodelled, including a handsome new front, and the interior changed and refurnished until it is one of the most attractive stores of its kind operated in any city the size of Xenia. The store proper occupies two floors with a third story used for stock room purposes.

BOTTLE PEDDLER IS SOUGHT FOR MURDER OF WEALTHY WOMAN

Victim Apparently Robbed; Assaultant Makes Escape

CLEVELAND, Aug. 9.—A bottle peddler was sought by police today in connection with the murder of Mrs. Agnes Klossowski, 69-year-old divorcee, reputed to have been wealthy, whose body, bound and gagged and found in bed at her home, was found this morning.

Described as foreign-born and about 55 years old, the bottle peddler is believed to have been one of the last persons to see the woman alive.

Found by a roomer, Mrs. Stella Volk, when she returned home at 2:50 o'clock this morning, the body was stretched across the bed, a shopping bag hanging from the right wrist and the leather handle of a Radiator tape had been used to bind the woman's arms behind her back. Police believe the murder was committed between 10 last night and 2 this morning.

No money was found in the house, leading detectives to the belief that the murderer obtained some loot. Drawers from the tables and bureaus were thrown on the floors, clothes scattered about, and the house ransacked.

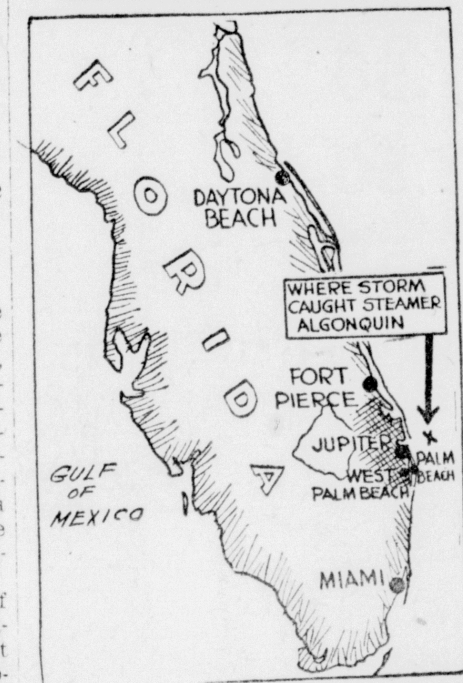

Though police say the bottle peddler may not have been involved in the murder, they believe the theory was advanced that the aged woman was slain as the result of an argument over money matters, and the man sought may be able to shed some light on the crime. The bottle peddler, detectives said, supplied the woman with bottles in which she kept home-made beverages.

RUSSIANS APPROVE OHIO WATERWORKS

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—Two Ohio city waterworks today had been highly praised by three officials of Moscow, Russia, who are touring the United States procuring data for the construction and improvement of like enterprises in their own country. Columbus and Marion waterworks plants were visited by the delegation. The Russians are J. Andronov, president of the bureau of Moscow; A. Prudnikov, manager of the waterworks in Moscow; and S. Ozerov, chief chemist at laboratory. Their comment was that the Ohio waterworks was "particularly well organized."

CANDIDATES SWING INTO HOME STRETCH OF OHIO'S PRIMARY

Wet And Dry Fight Prominent In Campaigns

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—Candidates for positions on the Republican and Democratic state tickets were swinging into the home stretch today in the political race which ends at Ohio's state-wide primaries next Tuesday.

Winners of the primary contest, as nominees of their respective parties, will qualify as entrants for the major race which terminates at the polls during the general elections next November.

There are sixty-four candidates for the nominations for state offices to be made at Tuesday's primaries. Of these candidates, thirty-six are Republicans and twenty-eight Democrats. The primary election will result in the selection of nominees for governor, lieutenant governor, U. S. senator (two to be chosen by each party), secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, attorney general, and judges of the Ohio Supreme Court (two to be chosen by each party).

Ohio voters, also will nominate candidates for congress, for the Ohio senate and house of representatives and for numerous county, municipal, village and other local offices.

Chief interest, to date, in the present state political campaign has been in the contest for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Partisan feeling on a number of occasions, registered fever heat during the past two or three weeks in connection with this contest.

The Ohio Anti-Saloon League has figured conspicuously in the efforts which are being made by Congressman James T. Begg, Sandusky; Myers V. Cooper, Cincinnati; and Attorney General Edward C. Turner, Columbus, to win the G. O. P. gubernatorial nomination. Turner has been steadfast in his attack upon officials of the league and in his endeavor to put an end to what he termed an improper party.

FOUR MEMBERS OF FAMILY DROWNED

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 9.—Life guards searched the Licking River near Covington, Ky., today for the bodies of Rollie Yelton, 36, and his three children who drowned while Mrs. Yelton, a baby in her arms, looked on.

Yelton and his family went to the banks of the river yesterday to fish. Esther, 7, playing in the water was carried away by the strong current. Her father, sister, and brother, Clifford, lost their lives trying to rescue her.

HOOVER BARS "MUDSLINGING" FROM PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Aug. 9.—With his formal notification forty-eight hours away, Herbert Hoover today barred "mudslinging" from his campaign for the presidency.

The Republican nominee let it be known that he will not countenance any personalities in the campaign either against his Democratic rival, Gov. Alfred Smith or other prominent Democratic party leaders. He placed "mudslinging" under the ban of his campaign and "ballyhoo" programs, devised by his enthusiastic personal friends.

The candidate was looking forward today to the arrival of Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the notification committee. Senator Moses will deliver the notification address at the exercises here Saturday. It is his wish that the nominees come to the senator with a number of suggestions, which materially changed its contents.

Moses will bring the revised speech with him. It was said the speech would be perfunctory in accordance with Mr. Hoover's wishes and devoid of the "wise-cracks" which illumined the senator's address as permanent chairman at the Kansas City convention.

PHILADELPHIA MAN WILL HEAD EAGLES

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—Edward J. Ryan, Philadelphia, was unopposed for election today as grand worthy president of the Grand Aerie Fraternal Order of Eagles, holding their national convention here.

Other nominees for grand aerie officers who were unopposed were: C. J. Chenu, Sacramento, Cal., grand today were discussing their wedding plans in what was described as "a perfect love sanctuary."

The engagement of Tunney and Miss Mary Josephine Lauder having been formally announced by the girl's mother, Mrs. George Lauder, interest turned to the date of the wedding, a ceremony which will unite the world's heavyweight champion who relinquished the title, and the "$50,000,000 heiress", member of a socially prominent and wealthy family. The wedding will take place "in New York in the late autumn or winter" was the only announcement.

Osculatory greetings were missing when Gene and "Polly" met upon his arrival at the landing of the Lauder estate. As the launch containing the retired champion stepped ashore he was greeted with a cheery "hello Gene," "hello Joe" was his reply. The young couple

No Kisses When Ex-Champ Meets Fiancee—Wedding In Fall Or Winter.

SOUTH BRISTOL, Me., Aug. 9.—With guards patrolling the shores of St. John's Island and cut off from the mainland by water, Gene Tunney and "Polly" Lauder today were discussing their wedding plans in what was described as "a perfect love sanctuary."

The engagement of Tunney and Miss Mary Josephine Lauder having been formally announced by the girl's mother, Mrs. George Lauder, interest turned to the date of the wedding, a ceremony which will unite the world's heavyweight champion who relinquished the title, and the "$50,000,000 heiress", member of a socially prominent and wealthy family. The wedding will take place "in New York in the late autumn or winter" was the only announcement.

MINES OPENED

BARTON, O., Aug. 9.—Barton mines of the Y. and O. Coal Company were operating today on the open shop system with 15 former employees entering the pits, it was announced here. Union pickets surrounded the mine, but offered no interference with the non-union workers as they entered the mines. Capacity output by fall is predicted by the owners.

AMERICAN FORCE IS ATTACKED; NATIVE BANDITS LOSE TEN

Three Marines Are Hurt; Planes Aid Search For Rebels

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, Aug. 9.—One American marine was killed and three others seriously wounded in a sharp clash with native bandits on the banks of a little stream sixty miles from Bokay, Capt. E. G. Howard, of Oakland, Cal., in charge of the marine detachments here, revealed today.

A detachment of marines commanded by Captain M. A. Edson, of Burlington, Vermont, was attacked by a large force of bandits while encamped on the banks of the stream, according to Howard. Fierce fighting followed in which ten of the bandits were killed.

The marines were greatly outnumbered but quickly organized their forces and put the bandits to rout. News of the encounter came when planes brought the wounded marines here for medical attention.

Private Myer Sengle, of Hartford, Conn., was killed in action. The wounded marines are Private Thomas Paine, of Roxbury, Mass.; Private Tusel Shoemaker, of South Charleston, W. Va.; and Private Melvin Mosier, of Topeka, Kan. All three are expected to recover.

Captain Edson sent word that he is now following the bandits. Planes were sent from here to assist him in tracking down the Guerrillas. It is believed the marauders were remnants of General Sandoval's forces.

Major Harold Utley, commanding the marines in the eastern area of Nicaragua, is now at Bokay. Captain Howard is in charge here during his absence.

All arrangements have been completed to handle a crowd of from 100,000 to 150,000, although the local managers expect no such attendance. An impressive program of ceremonies will proceed the actual notification. There will be a drill by the Pasadena American Legion drill corps, which won second prize at the Paris convention; a musical program by massed bands; aviation stunts above the stadium and daylight fireworks.

After this, Gov. C. C. Young, of California, will introduce Senator Moses, the latter will tell Hoover about the action of the Kansas City convention and the nominee then will accept the nomination while announcing the issues of the coming campaign.

Hoover has made it clear to his associates and advisors that he will deal in no personalities in his speeches. It is his wish that the nominees make an affirmative campaign singing its own praises and explaining its administrative and legislative records. He believes that the campaign can be won on the record of the Republican party plus the platform adopted at Kansas City. He will let the opposition attack and criticize. The nominee was ready for the notification today. He has a memorized most of his 7,100 word speech of acceptance.

The nominee will celebrate his 54th birthday Friday.

AUTOIST FINED

Pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving, Samuel Wilson, colored, was fined $10 and costs by Judge S. C. Wright in Probate Court Wednesday. Wilson was arrested by a deputy of the sheriff's office.

Twenty-five persons were recovering here today from injuries received when a speeding Greyhound bus bound for Cleveland from Chicago left the road and overturned in the ditch about six miles west of here. Ten others on the bus escaped unhurt.

The blinding glare from an approaching car at a sharp turn in the road had caused the driver of the bus to swerve too far and the bus leaped over the bank into the ditch six feet below.

Passing motorists and citizens of Lagrange took the injured to a hospital for treatment. None is expected to die.

CITRUS SECTION IS DAMAGED AS STORM SWINGS WESTWARD

Seaman Hurt During Daring Rescue; Damage $5,000,000

ABOARD S. S. ALGONQUIN, Aug. 9.—(Via Radio to International News Service)—Seaman Washington of the Mallory liner Algonquin is suffering today from a fractured skull sustained when he aided in the rescue of five men adrift in the motor boat Clementine May, eighty-five miles north of Jupiter lighthouse on the east coast of Florida yesterday. The heavy seas, whipped up by the hurricane which has been sweeping Florida, made the rescue difficult and Washington was injured in helping to get the five men aboard the steamship.

The 300 passengers aboard the Algonquin cheered Captain B. W. Leek for stopping to rescue the crew of the launch when the steamship was being badly butted by the high seas herself.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 9.—South central Florida and the west coast were isolated today as the tropical disturbance that struck west from beach and the east coast Tuesday and Wednesday hurried itself across the state toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Scores of towns in the rich citrus section were plunged in darkness last night when the fifty-mile gale tore down power lines in an area of about forty miles, from Winter Haven to Orlando.

Winter Haven, Kissimmee, Orlando, Lake Wales and many other little towns were in the path of the storm, and the same damage that was done at Jupiter, West Palm Beach, Fort Pierce and other cities on the east coast was done in the south central section and the west coast of the state.

Houses were unroofed, trees and shrubbery unrooted, windows broken, but the most damage was suffered by fruit growers and public utilities, such as railroads and power and wire companies.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 9.—Centering over the rich citrus belt in the south central part of the state after causing damage on the east coast estimated at $5,000,000, the hurricane which has been ravaging Florida for the past two days rapidly neared Tampa and the Gulf coast towns early today.

Rising winds of from forty to seventy miles per hour were reported from towns fifty miles east of Tampa. In that city gas warnings were issued and shipping was held to the harbor.

No loss of life had been reported from the storm center early today, but nearly all wire communication was down. It was feared, however, that the rich citrus orchards in the path of the tropical storm would be ruined.

Meanwhile towns of the lower east coast as far south as Palm Beach, engaged in removing the debris left in the wake of the hurricane were warned by the weather bureau that another storm was sweeping in from the sea. This new disturbance was believed to be centering about 100 miles southwest of Porto Rico early this morning, and moving northwest or west northward.

Indications were that the second storm would exceed its predecessor in intensity. The weather bureau reported. Last night, however, it was of but moderate intensity.

The total damage done by the tropical storm that lashed the Florida, east coast for a stretch of 125 miles between Palm Beach and Titusville may exceed $5,000,000, it was conservatively estimated here.

The greatest damage was suffered by the public utility companies when miles of wires were pum down by the gale, leaving this territory without power and wire service for many hours. Telephone communication had been partially restored today.

Crops and young fruit trees suffered also, and scores of houses of light frame construction were unroofed at Melbourne and towns in that vicinity Canal Point, Pahokee and places on Lake Okeechobee shore escaped with comparatively light damage.

No casualties were reported.

SMITH WILL ATTEND BRENNAN FUNERAL

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Governor Alfred E. Smith will leave today for Chicago where tomorrow he will attend the funeral of George E. Brennan, veteran Democratic leader of Illinois.

Following the funeral the governor plans to put the final touches on the speech he will deliver on August 22 when he formally accepts the presidential nomination.

The governor and the late Democratic leader had been close friends since 1920.

AIRPLANE VICTIM COUSIN OF XENIAN

Wendell Pavey, prominent Cincinnati automobile dealer who with J. L. Bovis, Cincinnati, was killed when their airplane crashed near Lunken Airport, Cincinnati, Wednesday morning, is a cousin of Mrs. A. B. Kester, N. King St., and a brother of Mrs. D. J. Davies, Cincinnati, formerly of Xenia. Pavey and Bovis were on their way to attend a golf match at Akron, between Cincinnati and Akron automobile dealers. They became lost in a heavy fog just after taking off from Lunken Airport at 8 a. m. against the advice of airport officials, who warned them that flying in the heavy fog in a plane not equipped with instruments for "blind flying" was impossible. Bovis, who had been flying for about two months and who recently graduated as a pilot at Lunken Airport, was in the cockpit and Pavey spun the propeller for the take-off. Because the plane was a dual control affair, officials at the airport were unable to state which of the two men was piloting the plane. The plane crashed in a cornfield about a mile and a half east of the airport.

Do you know—about that latest detour...?

They're always busy building better roads. The one you traveled yesterday may be closed today! Road repairs, new bridges, elimination of railroad crossings, any one of a dozen causes might make it temporarily unusable.

As a result, unless you have up-to-the-minute information on road conditions, you may have to take a long and tortuous detour—hard on your car, your passengers and your temper.

Members of this motor club receive such information free of cost. We keep a close check on all roads in this vicinity and can always tell you the best way to reach your destination under prevailing conditions.

And since this club is affiliated with the American Automobile Association, we keep in constant touch with road conditions in every section of America. Daily reports from 1,045 other member clubs are relayed to us through A. A. A. National Headquarters in Washington, D. C.

This is but one of the many services we offer to our members. Others include emergency road service, free legal advice, foreign service, up-to-date road maps, motor logs, and information regarding hotels, tourist camps, garages, places of scenic and historic interest, and places to hunt and fish along the way.

The cost of a membership is small—the benefits great. Come in today, or telephone for further information.

The same public discernment which made Essex the world's largest selling "Six," gives picture-like vividness to this car's enormous excess of value.

It is impressive to know that point for point the Essex Super-Six equals or excels any car up to $300 or $400 greater cost. But cold figures can't express the drama of this Chicago school teacher who writes:

"I looked at several costlier cars first, but I liked the Essex much better in every way, and I saved enough to pay almost all expenses of my European trip."

Or this Ohio business man: "My Essex gives me every fine car quality and performance ability which our former costlier car gave, and we saved enough to pay for the whole family's touring vacation."

APPROACHING MARRIAGE INFORMALLY ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Libby Sawyer, Tarton Springs, Fla., are informally announcing the approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret to Mr. Russell Black Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Morton Stewart, Yellow Springs, which will take place in Yellow Springs, the afternoon of August 20.

The Rev. Carl White, of the Yellow Springs Presbyterian Church will perform the ceremony. Miss Sawyer formerly attended Annapolis College and for the past year has been secretary to Mrs. Fressa Baker Imman, who is assistant to President Arthur E. Morgan.

Mr. Stewart graduated from Antioch in June. He also attended Columbia University, New York City. He is now employed in the Miami Deposit Bank, Yellow Springs.

In honor of Miss Sawyer, Miss Mary Tuttle and Miss Helen Hoenle entertained with a bridge party at their home "The Lawn" Tuesday evening.

SURPRISE "SHOWER" HELD AT AFTERNOON GATHERING

Ribbons presented to the guests led to a spider web, under which were placed the gifts for Miss Josephine Conklin, bride-elect of Mr. Elwood Smith, at the afternoon party entertained by Mrs. John Kenney, New Burlington Pike, Wednesday.

The "shower" of miscellaneous gifts was a surprise to the honor guest, Miss Conklin, and she received many lovely presents.

The thirty guests were entertained on the lawn during the afternoon, with contests and games. An ice course was served. Gay-colored Japanese lanterns combined with the attractive frocks of the women guests in making the scene a pretty one.

Mr. Charles Kohler, Wilmington, was the only guest from a distance.

EDUCATES SON TO WIN $700,000 LAW SUIT BASED ON PLAY

By RUBY WEIL, Special Writer for Central Press and Gazette.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 8.—Sixteen years ago Harold Fendler was a child. He was probably too young to be taken to see the popular play, "Bird of Paradise," and certainly too young to know much about the suit for plagiarism which his mother filed almost immediately after its production against the author and producer, Richard Walton Tully and Oliver Morosco, respectively.

Today Harold Fendler is a man—a graduate of Stanford University and the Harvard Law School, and practicing attorney here. He is helping settle the suit which means a fortune for his mother. The case lay dormant for twelve years, from 1912 to 1924, because Mrs. Fendler decided to wait until her son could grow up, graduate from law school and investigate and prosecute the case. And as a result of his experience, he is now specializing in plagiarism cases.

Today Mrs. Fendler is theoretically $751,891 richer—or will be when the New York supreme court affirms a report made by an official referee calling for an accounting by Morosco and Tully.

Actually, Mrs. Fendler is no wealthier than she was before the referee made his report. Nor is she likely to be, for some time. The defense will appeal the case, and even though the highest court in the land should uphold her right to the fortune, representing the profits of the play and interest, the most optimistic friend does not expect Mrs. Fendler to receive $608,361 from Richard Walton Tully, and $173,529 from Oliver Morosco. Morosco filed a petition in bankruptcy in 1926. He is on the Pacific coast trying to recoup his fortune.

Tully is also on the coast, a freelance writer working for moving picture producers. Mrs. Fendler's attorneys do not hope to obtain a full settlement from him.

It is the movie rights, long sought by large producers, but held up by the litigation, which Mrs. Fendler hopes will bring her a financial reward of her long fight in the courts. As a play known all over the world, and still produced in some sections, "The Bird of Paradise" holds the promise of big returns to a movie producer, and to the holder of royalty rights.

The suit was filed in 1912, shortly after Mrs. Fendler had seen "The Bird of Paradise" during its first performance. A native of New York City, she had been deeply interested in the history and customs of Hawaii since her residence there as a girl. She had lived there for ten years, leaving when she was 18 or 19 years old. While there, accompanied by her mother, she knew the princess who inspired the character of the heroine in a play she wrote, "In Hawaii"—and, Mrs. Fendler charges, in "The Bird of Paradise," after her play was in Morosco's hands.

Returning from Hawaii, Mrs. Fendler, at that time Grace Altman, became a high school teacher and writer. For twenty years she has lived here most of the time, with her husband, Henry Fendler. She still writes, and has published a number of short stories. She also has written several other plays, but has had none produced.

ELEAZER

Miss Mary Smith, Dayton, is spending a month with her parents. Mr. Taylor Bennington, who is working with the Fudge contractors, fell and broke three of his ribs. He is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Maddux were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hartsock last week and attended the Fair. Mrs. Dennis Kurtz and Mrs. Ed Curlett were also their guests Thursday evening.

Miss Helen Smith had her tonsils removed at Dr. Haines Hospital Tuesday morning and is doing nicely.

Miss Mina Oglesbee has returned home from Ashley, O., where she has been spending a month.

Soon to Wed Mackay

Miss Gwendolyn Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rose of New York, is engaged to John W. Mackay, son of Clarence Mackay, president of the Postal Company. Young Mackay's sister, Ellen, will be remembered for her marriage to Irving Berlin.

POSTPONE HEARING ON ABANDONMENT

A proposed hearing set for Thursday, relative to the application of the Springfield and Xenia Railway Co., for permission to abandon operations, has been continued indefinitely by the State Utilities Commission, according to an announcement Wednesday.

Negotiations looking to continuance of the service are "progressing satisfactorily," but plans have not yet been consummated. The commission has been informed, it was stated.

COURT OF APPEALS

To the Republican Voters of Greene County: A judge of the Court of Appeals is to be nominated on your ticket at the coming primary. This being a court of last resort for litigants in the great majority of cases the selection of a judge becomes as important as selecting a member of the Supreme Court. Two Republican candidates appear on the ticket. Judge Roscoe G. Hornbeck of Madison County is a candidate. He is a learned lawyer and able jurist, being now common pleas judge with nearly fourteen years experience in that office. The other candidate, Frank I. Brown of Dayton, has been admitted to the bar, but has never actively engaged in the practice of the legal profession, and has had no judicial experience. He is a good stenographer and this is his chief occupation. For many years and now he is official reporter for the Common Pleas Court of his county. As the important duties of this office require judges skilled in the law, with judicial training and experience, we the undersigned Republican members of the Greene County Bar, urge you to support Judge Hornbeck at the coming primary for member of the Court of Appeals.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE EVIDENCE OF WISDOM—Let another man praise thee, and not thine own mouth; a stranger, and not thine own lips.
—Prov. 27:2.

PICK'ING A PLACE TO GO BROKE

The world hears much of the few who make good in New York City. Of the fate of the rest not so much is heard or said unless a body is found in a gas-filled attic room or floating in the river.

In the course of a year thousands of young folk leave their homes in the country or some smaller city to seek fame, fortune and excitement in New York. A single person cannot live decently in the metropolis for less than $25 a week. Those who fail to land jobs paying as much as this soon find themselves in an environment so depressing and demoralizing as to permanently affect their lives and character.

New York has more inhabitants than it can house, feed and transport. Except for the relatively few who hit the stars, it is no longer the city of opportunity. New York is now big enough to say that of itself.

Aspiring youth should choose some other place in which to go broke. There is no place where the "broke" persons is so dead broke as in a great city.

Success comes hardest in a large city, but the greatest successes are won there. So hopeful and adventurous youth will continue leaping into this bruising and breaking maelstrom. They are willing to take the desperate chance. Fortune smiles more frequently today upon the youth who hunts success in the smaller, rapidly growing cities.

PLAYING THE STAR PART

In calling attention to the big part the United States has played since the war, Premier Mussolini, in a recent address, declared it a predominant role in the history of the world.

Why has our country forged ahead so tremendously? Partly of course it is due to our rich resources. Yet many countries have had as rich resources as we, but have made no great progress.

The secret of our progress seems to be, first, that we have spent money freely on education, so our people have learned to work intelligently. Second, we have avoided wars so far as possible, so we have not wasted our resources. Third, we give a fair measure of justice to the people, so they can be reasonably sure of keeping what they produce. Fourth, we have been quick to apply modern science to our work, so we produce efficiently.

The tremendous waste in money and human efficiency which is sapping the life of many nations through the liquor traffic has been largely eliminated. Any country with education, peace, justice, sobriety and science is bound to go ahead.

The psychologists tell us to avoid fear, and the people who are afraid of work should accept this suggestion anyway.

The problem of some political campaigns is how to make statements that don't mean anything, but will sound as if

The Way of the World

GROWING UP

The delay and the difficulty of growing up furnish one of the most interesting sights on man. Some time ago, in a student war participated in by members of the engineering and law departments of the University of Michigan, more than 4,000 eggs of varying degrees of freshness were thrown. All the way up through life the desire to throw eggs prevails and persists. A supposedly intelligent man once said that the thing he would like most to do would be to throw an egg into an electric fan. Another man said he craved the pleasure of jumping off a woodshed roof into a bathtub full of ice cream. There is no such thing as completely growing up. Perhaps it is just as well. A world full of actual adults would be a dreary place.

WHAT DO THEY READ?

Dean Gray, of the College of Education, Chicago university, remarks that "the most voracious readers are to be found among the young adults between the ages of 17 and 30 years. Books have taken a back seat in matters of popular reading material in America. Newspapers come first in interest, magazines hold second place and books third."

If that is true it ought to give newspaper owners something to think about. If young people are going to take their impressions from today's newspapers it behooves the makers of those newspapers to give them some reading matter that is worth their time and attention. There are, fortunately, a number of newspapers in this country that are doing this very thing. The ones which are not doing it will not indefinitely continue in popularity and prestige.

DEMPSEY

Jack Dempsey has pretty well paid his way with Uncle Sam. From the slugging festivals in which Dempsey has starred since he fought his way to the heavyweight championship against Jess Willard in Toledo, the United States government has collected nearly $800,000 in taxes. Adding the taxes paid by many others who profited by the battles, the amount passes into millions. Amusement taxes netted by the government in the last ten years amount to more than 500 million dollars.

TRUE SALESMANSHIP

In a recent commercial convention, salesmanship was defined as not merely the job of inducing people to buy a certain article, but rather as an orderly effort to spread health and comfort and knowledge. The salesman who does not take a long look at his job, who does not see his work as an opportunity for achievement something

of a
New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK — Johnny Moore works daily within sight of thousands of persons, but few if any of them ever see him, and as a worker he is a lonely man. He has no opportunity to pass the time of the day, and remark upon the weather or the play of the Yankees, with any of his neighbors. For Johnny is the staff stevedore of the Woolworth building, with perhaps the highest steady job in the world.

The strong winds that whip around the building tear out a lot of the mortar in the joints of the terra cotta in the towers, and he spends much of his time re-mortaring the joints. Thus is only one of his aerial jobs, and he has to be up there in all weathers.

Is his work dangerous? "You get used to anything," Looking down on men hasn't increased Johnny Moore's respect for them. "They look all alike to me. A lot of flies crawling around on the ground."

He's married and has a child, and of course his wife cautions him to be careful every morning as he leaves home.

Are movie stars loose with their money? Not Adolph Menjou. Leaving New York for Hollywood, he diverted loungers in the lobby of his hotel with a lusty harangue about his bill.

Broadway chorus girls aren't being so careful about their weight now, for curves are fashionable again. One producer is encouraging his girls to eat baked potatoes, telling them that a 140-pound girl is the ideal girl.

Experience has taught New York merchants that a business thrives best in a block in which it has strong competition in its own line. There are 13 shoe stores in one block in Fifth street, but another is opening up.

What will Roger Wolfe Kahn do next? He has tired of most of the things that interest youths. He has had racing cars, airplanes, a jazz orchestra of his own, a night club of his own, all the travel he has desired. He'll be 21 soon, and in accordance with family tradition, he will have $5,000,000 settled upon him by his father, Otto Kahn, international banker. What will he do with it?

Sophisticated Broadwayites call the eight-sewing cars that take tourists to Chinatown, the "Gyp to Chinatown buses." Chinatown, like Greenwich Village, is only a tradition. To see the real Chinatown requires seven league boots, for it spreads all over metropolitan New York. The Orientals no longer tend to colonize. Many of them live in Long Island towns, and play tennis and golf with their Occidental neighbors. There is a group of the Chinese in Brooklyn Heights, another in The Bronx. The men part their hair in the middle and wear plus-fours; the women are bobbed and outfitted on Fifth avenue. They have radios and electric ice boxes, and I have seen them laughing at newspaper comic strips.

The hatless men movement has spread to such an extent, especially in New York, that haters are worried. Mussolini, boss of Italy, which is one of the principal manufacturers of hats for export, has taken cognizance of the situation, and issued an order for all Italian men to wear hats. A friend of mine has an offer from a concern that will take him out of New York, perhaps permanently. He thinks it is a splendid opportunity, and is happily making plans to take the job. He informed some friends of his who are, like himself, small town products. They expressed no pleasure over his advertisement, but bespoke their amazement. "Why, you're not leaving New York, are you? You're crazy." Another friend he has is a native New Yorker. This one's reaction to the news was: "Gee that's great! I wish I had a chance to live in a nice little town like that. New York's no place to live."

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

An obscure little restaurant on a side street has the best fish chowder in New York. The proprietor told me that he has little competition because everybody dislikes the bother of seeding chowder.

If I had a restaurant and sold cherry pies as good as his, I should take full page advertisements in all leading newspapers and magazines and make it necessary to call out the police reserve to handle traffic in front of my door. Surely, I am not the only person who would like good pie and be willing to walk out of may way to get it. Why, then, isn't pie more widely advertised?

Why is chewing gum so widely advertised and so little said about pie?

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

The Restorative Value of Sleep
In the next few articles I have determined not to confine myself to any one subject, but to cover, as far as I can, those principals of beauty which so often escape our attention.

The first subject I am going to take up is sleep. It is a simple and certain fact that perfect health cannot exist without regular and restful sleep. It must, of course, be proportioned sensibly in the amount requisite, first to the age of the individual, and then to the demands of life. I know of no more certain menace, not only to health, but to beauty as well, than loss of sleep.

And yet, it does seem to me that there is no phase of health so badly neglected. Even in infancy, I have found it not at all uncommon to witness the regular routine hours of rest disturbed by every whim of the moment.

Children are permitted to stay up on excursions ranging from a delayed dinner hour to a pleasure outing, and as a result, their little nerves are shattered, their health injured, and the regularity which should become a life-long habit is permanently disrupted. There should be absolutely no excuse for a child losing one minute of the 12 hours' uninterrupted sleep which he requires until he is 12 or 14 years old.

With women, I know very well that most of them go to bed when they can find no expedient for holding off sleep.

How we moderns do work against nature! Have you ever stopped to realize how our hours have been arranged for us? How nature darkens the world at night and lightens it at dawn, so that we may have light and sunshine for our labors, and darkness and peace for our rest? And yet, foolishly, we turn night into day with our night clubs and our dances—and then wonder why we "age" quickly, and why our eyes become darkened or hollow, why our skin grows haggard and prematurely old.

Sleep is the great restorer. During this nightly interval of rebuilts and relaxes overstrained nerves, and tissues are calmed, physical and mental rest, nature strengthened and renewed.

I really believe that half of us would drop ten years from our faces if we worked with nature instead of against her. If we are properly, breathed properly and slept properly.

Strange as it may seem, there are thousands of people who haven't the faintest idea of the correct conditions under which they should sleep. They are the great army of "early morning stretchers."

Crossness is almost always a physical condition, one not infrequently occasioned through the loss of sleep—or the lack of recuperative sleep which advances a step farther. Great exhaustion after waking, heavy stupor, headache or congestion of the forehead and temples, the swelling of face or eyelids—these are significant of unfavorable sleeping conditions. In nine cases out of ten, I firmly believe that the trouble is poor air. Bad air is poisonous to the blood. Because we breathe more slowly and more deeply in sleep, it is imperative that every inhalation should be as free as possible from carbonic acid gas. And unless air is kept in motion through a direct current, it cannot be pure. The heavy sleep which comes so often to people who rest in unventilated rooms is exhausting, and not at all restorative.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS M. D.

Answers To Correspondents

In one of the letters of advice to those who are thin simply because they do not eat enough for their activities, I advised the taking of raw eggs in orange juice—one egg in one-half glass of orange juice after each meal—as a procedure that had benefited many. One-half glass orange juice is 50 calories and a whole egg 75 calories, making 125 C. three times a day, or a total of 375 C. during the day.

Some persons do not seem to digest the white of the egg quite well, and for these, the yolk of the egg could be used alone. The yolk contains practically all of the fat and iron that these thin patients need. The egg yolk averages 50 to 60 C. each.

I have a letter from G. who wants to know if she should take the egg and orange juice in addition to the regular diet, and if she takes the whole egg would she include meat in her diet?

The answer is yes, G. they are to be taken in addition to the regular diet; otherwise there would be no increase in the calories and that is what the underweight person must do—increase his calories. They should be increased so rapidly, for normal weight, should be taken daily.

Insufficient sleep over any period of time is not appreciated as a definite factor that lowers resistance, I believe. Too many late parties, too much night work, etc., may be causes of nervous breakdowns. We can pretty definitely say this now since the University of Wisconsin proved in a series of studies on animals that the nerve cells are actually damaged by insufficient sleep.

The animals that were experimented on were prevented from sleeping.

Cheese Timbales.
Whole Wheat Bread and Butter
Lettuce With French Dressing
Butterscotch Rice Pudding
Iced Tea or Milk

Eat less meat and other heavy foods in hot weather, is the advice of the doctor. Also use hot drinks sparingly. Many feel that they need the stimulus of a hot cup of tea or coffee in the exhaustion occasioned by the hot, sticky days of mid-summer, however. And some claim that a cup of hot tea really cools them better than an iced drink. The pure of lettuce takes care of the outer leaves, leaving the heart of the salad.

Today's Recipes
Butterscotch Rice Pudding — One and one-half tablespoons gelatin, one-quarter cup cold water, one-third cup rice, three cups milk, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two tablespoons butter, one cup brown sugar. Soak gelatin in cold water. Cook rice with milk in a double boiler until tender. In another pan cook the butter and sugar until sugar is melted and brown. Add this to the rice and milk. Add gelatin, turn to a mold and chill until set. Serve with whipped cream.

Cheese Timbales—Four eggs, one cup hot milk, one cup grated cheese, two tablespoons chopped green pepper, one-eighth teaspoon paprika, one-half teaspoon salt. Beat the eggs very light, add the cheese, pepper, paprika and salt. Grease timbale molds, fill with the mixture, set in a baking pan and boiling water and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) until the egg is set. Turn out carefully on a hot platter. Serve at once with tomato or pimento sauce if you wish.

those who may be troubled with insomnia may not become alarmed, because lying in bed at complete rest also will recuperate the nerves almost as much as the sleep.

It is often found that those who boast of their tremendous vitality because they get along on such short hours of sleep, very frequently take short periods of rest, or take short naps, and these do give an opportunity for the recuperation of the nerves. However, it is very wise to have eight hours of time for sleep, for most of us.

Itching
G.—Chronic itching is known as pruritus. Chronic itching of the whole body or of certain parts is sometimes due to a diet that is heavy in starches and sugars, causing a higher sugar content of the blood than normal. In these cases a diet—that is, one low in starches and sugars—will cure the itching. A low starch and sugar diet will often clear up other forms of skin disorders, and it is also effective in certain forms of arthritis (inflammation of the joints) and, of course, overweight and its accompanying disorders.

Behind the Scenes in
Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Saying stranded Arctic explorers is a pretty thankful job these times.

Russia, Sweden and Norway did every bit of the rescue work, following the smash-up of General Noble's "Italia" expedition. They did it at their own expense and at the jeopardy of their own men's lives—probably at the cost of Captain Amundsen's.

If they expected to win at least a few words of praise for their toil and sacrifices, they are wiser now.

All adverse critics of the Noble expedition are "slackers," according to Premier Mussolini. Benito can hardly mean anybody but these same Russians, Swedes and Norwegians, because all criticism necessarily must have been theirs originally. Except through them, not a soul on earth knows what conditions they reached the castaways.

True, ugly charges are made—of mismanagement on the "Italia," and of still worse things after the disaster.

The complaint in Washington is that "most of these charges originate in Russia." And not unnaturally, either—considering that the Russians did 90 per cent of the relief work, with their ice breaker, "Krassin."

But, "The obvious intent of such absurd yarns," comments the "Washington Post," "is to stir up animosity between capitalistic countries."

Now, honestly, what does the "Washington Post" know about it? And what a nice note of appreciation to the soviet folk!—for caving in the bow of their ice-crusher and endangering the lives of all on board, to snatch members of the Noble party from death on the polar floes.

Neither is it quite true that all charges against the "Italia" management are of Russian origin. Norway and Sweden make a few also.

Flying over the frozen northern ocean is extra-hazardous aviation, but the Russian pilot Chukhnovsky risked it, looking for "Italia" survivors.

What is more, he sighted two of them, and then was himself forced down, in a position of great peril—but not until after he had signalled to the "Krassin" where to find the Italians—for Chukhnovsky was bent on a rescue, no matter how he fared.

"Never mind me," he wired to the "Krassin's" captain, when the latter would have turned aside to pick up his own countryman. "Save the others first."

Doesn't it seem as if most of us would be proud to meet a chap like Pilot Chukhnovsky? — Bolshevik or no Bolshevik.

That is what the Russian-American Chamber of Commerce in New York thought, when it invited Chukhnovsky and Prof. Samoilovich, head of the "Krassin" relief expedition, to visit this country.

But it appears that the Russian-American Chamber of Commerce took too much for granted. Pilot Chukhnovsky and Prof. Samoilovich must prove themselves "desirable aliens" before they can get passports to land in our midst—so announces the state department.

It is fair to say that state department officials evidently recognize the possibility that their attitude will be construed as somewhat ungracious, under the circumstances—that they admit some sort of an explanation to be in order.

The fact is, the department is a trifle suspicious of the Russian-American Chamber of Commerce—that is the officials' version.

They have an idea that the real motive behind the chamber's invitation to Chukhnovsky and Prof. Samoilovich to come here just at this time is "to improve Russian-American relations."

That, of course, would be awful.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Broken Hearts

I wonder if anyone has ever invented a concoction or device I could get to toughen maidens' hearts. It's sadly needed. Men are cruel and therefore the women pay, and just as I said awhile ago that I could use a love philter, now I need something that hardens maidens' hearts and makes them unbreakable. I am afraid many of the boys would testify that there are damsels whose hearts are hard enough.

Really, girls, I don't want to make fun of you, but don't be too easily hurt, give the boys as good as they give you, and they will like you better for it.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am broken hearted, so please help me. I've been going with a friend of the same age as myself. I love this my friend, but now he's angry at me. Last week I went to a doings with a girl and he doesn't want me to go with her. I met him on the street and he wouldn't speak. I asked him what was wrong and he said 'you know.' I often meet him on the street, but he never speaks. I really love him, so please tell me what to do to win him back again."

FIREMEN TAKE TWO GAMES WEDNESDAY FROM ST. BRIGIDS

The Firemen won a double-header from St. Brigid High School in the National Softball League Wednesday night, taking the first game 13 to 2 and the aftermath by 13 to 2.

Both contests were limited to seven innings by agreement. L. Downey pitched the third-placers to victory in both games while Phil Campbell was on the mound for the parochial school nine in each contest.

The league-leading Harness Club meet The Downtown Country Club Thursday night. Harness, with a two-game lead and only three more games to play, can clinch the league title beyond all mathematical doubt by a victory.

The country club, in second place, must win this game to retain even an outside chance for the championship. Harness has defeated the D. T. C. Club by one-run margins in two previous games this season.

JOHNSON SPEAKS AT WASHINGTON C. H.

Attorney Frank L. Johnson, this morning, candidate for the Republican nomination for congressman from the Seventh District, addressed the Dutch Club, a civic organization, at Washington C. H. Thursday noon.

Attorney Johnson was accompanied on the trip by twenty-five Xenia merchants.

The Xenia candidate, who is opposing the re-nomination of Congressman Charles Brand, Urbana, will also talk before the Kiwanis Club at Marysville, O., Friday night, he announced.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

BECKY BEALL STILL SLICING RECORDS

Becky Beall, black mare, owned and driven by J. C. Mitchell, Mechanicsburg, O., which established a new track record for the Xenia half-mile oval at the Greene County Fair last week, also lowered the track record at the Wilmington fairgrounds Wednesday in taking the second of three straight heats in the 2:11 pace in 2:05 1-4, one and one-fourth seconds faster than the mark set last summer.

Becky Beall, a grand circuit horse, set a new mark of 2:05 1-4 here last week in winning the $1000 2:14 pacing stage in straight heats. This bettered the former record by three-fourths of a second.

OLLIE KLEE MAY PERFORM HERE WITH XENIA RESERVES SUNDAY

Ollie Klee, former Ohio State University star athlete, may appear in the lineup of the Reserves against the Peebles, O. Tigers Baseball Club Sunday afternoon at Washington.

With Durnbaugh, the team's leading slugger, on his vacation, the Reserves are in need of a capable center fielder to take his place temporarily. Klee, the management believes, would more than fill the role.

Klee is the property of the Cincinnati Reds of the National League but is now playing semi-pro baseball in Dayton. However, he is subject to immediate recall on short notice should the Reds feel the need of his services.

Klee is a graduate of Steele High School in Dayton, where he starred in football, basketball and baseball. He later starred in various sports at Ohio State.

The Reserves will need to be well fortified for the Peebles team Sunday. L. Matheny will probably pitch for the Tigers with Michael working for the Reserves.

MIDDLETOWN GOLF TEAM BEATS XENIA AND EVENS SERIES

Avengeing a previous setback this season, Middletown defeated the Xenia Country Club 20 to 26 in an inter-city golf match over the Middletown eighteen-hole course Wednesday afternoon.

Two weeks ago in a match here, Xenia defeated Middletown 35 to 25.

Eber Reynolds with a card of 83, turned in the low score for Xenia. A Middletown player shot a 75 for low score of the match.

A feature of the match was a hole-in-one scored by Dr. Kerr, Middletown dentist, on the 180-yard second hole, a feat accomplished only once before on the new course in that city. Using a mashie, he sent his tee shot squarely to the cup. Dr. Kerr was playing against J. F. McLaughlin, Xenia, when he scored the ace.

Following the match, the Xenia players were entertained with dinner at the Betsy Ross Inn.

Xenia's concluding inter-city match of the season is against the Snow Hill Country Club of Wilmington here next Wednesday afternoon. Wilmington surprised with a victory over Xenia in a match played at Wilmington earlier this season.

FAIRGROUNDS WILL BE TOURIST CAMP DURING HOME-COMING

The Greene County fairgrounds will be used as an auto park and tourist camp during the Greene County Home-Coming here August 26-29, it is announced.

Consent of the fair board to use the grounds for this purpose, has been obtained by the Xenia Retail Merchants' Association, which interested itself in behalf of the number of home-coming visitors expected to come here by auto.

The merchants association will be in charge of the tourist camp, and will provide a caretaker for the grounds and ample police protection for the safety of those who will make their home there during the celebration.

The grounds are equipped to provide comfortable living facilities for campers, adequately located and with plenty of room for all the visitors expected. There are plenty of good water facilities on the grounds and the association will keep the grounds lighted at night.

The association will charge a fee of 50 cents to reach automobile entering the grounds.

The merchants' association also expects to erect signs and arrows pointing the route to be taken in reaching the fairgrounds.

Possibility was also forecast that arrangements may be made by the association whereby the fairgrounds could be used permanently as a tourist camp, opening in the spring and closing in the fall each year.

The temporary arrangement during the Home-Coming was made to accommodate out-of-town people who will come to Xenia with the expectation of pitching a tent and camping in the open.

CROSSING VICTIMS HAD RELATIVES HERE

Xenia relatives have been advised that Anderson Burba, 42, farmer of south of Kenton, O., his 3-year-old daughter, Ruth Florence, and 5-year-old son, Harold, lost their lives in a grade crossing accident at the Silver Creek crossing, six miles south of Kenton, August 8.

Mrs. Anderson Burba, 36, sustained a fractured hip and other occupants of the auto, members of the family, escaped uninjured. They were Vernon, 14, Louis, 11, James S. and Stelton, 6, Roy, the eldest son, was not in the car.

The accident occurred when their auto was demolished by a north-bound accommodation passenger train on the Big Four Railroad.

Funeral services for the three who were killed in the crash were held August 8. Anderson Burba was a nephew of Mrs. Dell Jones, Mrs. Belle Turner, Mrs. Nan Kennedy and William Burba, all of Xenia.

POTTERY MAKER AND PIGEON FANCIER ON CHAUTAUQUA HERE

The aim of the Redpath Chautauqua Association when the local program opens next Wednesday is to give a well rounded program. The best talent that can be found in the field of music, drama and public speaking will be supplemented by two specialty numbers.

On the second afternoon of the program, Thursday, a specialty that will appeal strongly to every one is the demonstration of pottery making by Smith Damron. He uses an old fashioned pottery wheel in making his demonstration of pottery making before the audience. He describes the preparation of clay, glazing, decorating and burning and gives an interesting history of the art of the potter. As he builds his clay vessels he likens them to character with wit, and philosophy thrown in for good measure.

In addition to his demonstration Damron displays a remarkable collection of American art pottery and chinaware, especially of rare china used in the White House. He has a replica of a dinner plate used during the Lincoln administration, of one presented to Martha Washington by LaFayette, one used by George Washington and another used during Wilson's administration, which is still being used by President and Mrs. Coolidge.

On the fifth afternoon, Monday, Frank Hollman, for five years president of the National Pigeon Association, editor of the American Pigeon Journal and pigeon expert and prize winner, is to exhibit twenty-five varieties. Mr. Holl-man was a pioneer in this field. Pigeons were the means he used to attend college, and proceeds from his work with the birds gave him his start in business. Pigeons were his hobby, and then through some queer quirk in fate, as has happened with other men, the hobby became his sole business. When he brings his "business" to Xenia it is prophesied there will be general satisfaction for that "queer quirk" which made pigeons Frank Hollman's life work. Acrobats of the pigeon world, birds that seem almost to possess reason will perform for Mr. Hollman in his lecture-demonstration here. He will have many interesting things to say about the homer pigeon.

FESS SAYS TREATY TO ADVANCE PEACE

Although it cannot outlaw war, the Kellogg treaty will advance materially the interests of peace, United States Senator S. D. Fess, Yellow Springs, declared in an address before Wittenberg College summer students at Springfield Wednesday. He also declared against modification of the United States' stand on the World Court and on the League of Nations.

"I thought our adherence to the World Court would be a step forward," he said, "but our conditions were not acceptable to the other nations. Therefore the door was closed."

"But the United States will take no further step until her proposals have been accepted. We will not modify our views on the League of Nations."

AUTOMATIC SIGNAL DEVICE INSTALLED

An automatic block signal system, installed on the Pennsylvania double track between Xenia and South Charleston, is to be placed in operation Friday morning at 10 o'clock, railroad officials announce. Eventually the new system, electrically operated, is to be inaugurated over the entire division. At present the new signals are being installed between Xenia and Columbus at points two miles apart. The installation work is in charge of Charles W. Suesco, Xenia, supervisor of telegraph and signals for the Cincinnati division of the railroad.

XENIAN ARRESTED IN CHICKEN THEFT

Charles Nicholson, 22, Xenia, and Estel Fisher, 18, Midland City, are under arrest at Wilmington, because it is alleged, they stole fourteen chickens from Frank Sneed, near Martinsville.

Charged with burglary, the pair waived examination and was held to the Clinton County grand jury by Mayor C. Q. Hildebrand Tuesday. They were held under bonds of $200 each. They were arrested Sunday night by police. Discovery by an officer of a lone hen in a coupe in which Fisher was asleep near the fairgrounds, proved the downfall of the pair. Investigation led to the confession of Fisher that Nicholson and he stole fourteen fowls from Sneed's chicken house after forcing an entrance.

AMERICAN SWIMMERS SET NEW OLYMPIC RECORD IN RELAY

OLYMPIC SWIMMING STADIUM, AMSTERDAM, Aug. 9.—A new Olympic record for the 800-metre relay was established today by the American team composed of Samson, Young, Weismuller and Clapp during the first elimination heats. The Americans swam the distance in 9 minutes, 38.45 seconds. The previous Olympic record, made by an American team in Paris in 1924, was 9 minutes 53.45 seconds. The Japanese team was second in 9:59.35, Sweden was third and Argentina fourth. The qualifiers for the final of that order.

BRAND ENDORSED BY COUNTY W. C. T. U.

At a meeting of the Greene County W. C. T. U. executive committee, held Wednesday, August 8, a letter was read from Mrs. Florence D. Richard, president of Ohio W. C. T. U. stating that the Ohio Women's Christian Temperance Union had endorsed Charles L. Brand for representative to Congress from the Seventh District and in accord with state action the Greene County W. C. T. U. unanimously endorsed as their choice, Charles L. Brand, who has been "a friend of the dry cause for years."

The World And All BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL IN DEFENSE OF MILLIONAIRES

Some minister of the gospel was widely quoted recently to the general effect that our American millionaires are sadly under-cultured and vulgar. The noted divine was credited with saying that our millionaires give away millions of dollars to colleges and libraries and schools as a sort of compensation to themselves for their own lack of culture. The general impression given by this speaker was that American millionaires make fools of themselves by giving away so much money to institutions of learning, thereby letting out of the bag a cat that meows out loud concerning the rich men's lack of learning. I know exactly what the minister is driving at, and I wholly disagree with him. We have in this country some of the richest and best equipped colleges and museums and art galleries and laboratories in the world, because certain American rich men have been imbued with a desire to give to future generations of Americans advantages of education and culture that these men have not themselves enjoyed. Is there anything discreditable in that? Quite the contrary, I should think.

Is it any discredit to the immigrant father that he will deny himself the comfortable things of life in order that his sons and daughters may have college educations and better chances in the world than he had?

Is it any disgrace to the mother in moderate circumstances that she will deny herself social life and save money to put her children through school?

Well then, how may we, without accounting ourselves immoderate snobs, criticize our wealthy men for providing the means whereby the sons and daughters of thousands of Americans may attain to learning that these wealthy men themselves had to get along without?

Most of the millionaires who have become prominent in American life rose from poverty. These are the ones who have given most to educational institutions. John D.

Stop Skin Itching

Use healing liquid Zemo

Stop worrying about such skin troubles as Eczema. For a clean, smooth, healthy skin apply Zemo. It penetrates, soothes and quickly relieves itching. Rockefeller had to struggle along without Latin or Greek or higher mathematics, but he has made it possible for thousands of young men and women whom he has never seen to equip their minds with some of the instruments of higher life. I'm mighty certain that I, for one, will never find it in my heart to criticize Rockefeller for that.

James B. Duke, the tobacco man, gave enough money to start on its way an institution of learning of which this country eventually will be very proud. Shall we jibe at Duke because he didn't know the rules of Chaldean syntax, or shall we revere the beneficent spirit in which he gave?

Let us not be snobbish with our millionaires, lest they run out on us and leave the Higher Learning flat!

KONJOLA BANISHED EVERY SYMPTOM OF HEALTH TROUBLES

Xenia-Lady Says All Traces of Neuritis and Stomach Misery Have Been Ended

It was predicted less than two months ago that the people of Xenia would very quickly find out about the merits of this celebrated new medicine Konjola which the Konjola Man is introducing and explaining in person to large crowds each day at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia. Report after report is being received from men and women of this city, describing the remarkable benefits derived from the use of this surprising new compound. For instance, just a few days ago Mrs. Anna Dunlap, New Burlington, Ohio (near Xenia) made the following statement:

"Every trace of my health troubles has been banished through the use of Konjola," said Mrs. Dunlap "and I am recommending this medicine in the hope that other sufferers will give it a fair trial because I know what it will do."

"Before I ever began taking Konjola I was afflicted with neuritis that was so severe I often thought I could not bear the misery any longer. The pains seemed to settle in my limbs and this made it very hard for me to get around. It was practically impossible for me to sleep at night and during the entire day the pains did not diminish the least bit. Then I began to have trouble with my stomach and I completely lost my appetite. I did not care to eat anything and what I did manage to force down, in order to nourish my body, always caused more harm than good. Due to the acid condition there would be a bad taste in my mouth for hours after eating. Indigestion pains bothered me constantly and I never could find anything that relieved me. In fact, I was in a general rundown condition and early in the day I would become so exhausted that it was impossible for me to do my housework."

"I had been reading the papers about Konjola and the unusual recommendations this medicine was receiving from Xenia people convinced me that it had real merit. I decided to give it a trial and I have never regretted that. Konjola has turned out to be exactly what I always needed. Gradually the neuritis pains began to ease up and as I continued with the treatment they completely disappeared. It has been sometime since I finished taking Konjola and not a single trace of that ailment has returned so I know the relief is permanent. My limbs are free and limber and I can get around without suffering the least bit. Konjola also banished every ugly stomach symptom and I am eating whatever is placed before me without after effects. I never have an indigestion pain and I really look forward to meals because I know that food will never cause the intense misery it formerly did. My strength and energy has returned and I have a keener enjoyment in the daily activities. It is a pleasure to endorse such a medicine as Konjola and I will do so at every chance I get."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given. Adv.

Studebaker alone has ball bearing spring shackles...restful riding!

Like the jewels of a watch, patented ball bearing shackles furnish frictionless support for each spring end—poise the chassis on polished balls of steel, sealed in lubricant sufficient for 20,000 miles and more of unattended service. These 172 polished steel balls, rolling in lubricant, permit unhampered action of Studebaker's pliant springs—give to Studebaker's hydraulic shock absorbers their lightning-fast control of every recoil—provide a sum total of travel-ease no other motor car at any price has ever offered.

This restful riding supplements Studebaker's brilliant performance... proved by the fact that Studebaker holds more official records for speed and stamina than all other manufacturers combined... including the greatest record in the entire history of transportation—25,000 miles in less than 23,000 consecutive minutes.

Drive before you buy!

You may doubt that Studebaker has created the smoothest riding cars ever built—until you ride in a new Studebaker. Let us take you today, in the model of your choice, over any route you select—the rougher the better. You'll lose your doubts before you've gone a mile. You'll also know that no other car can equal Studebaker in ease of steering, acceleration and braking.

MANY CONTRIBUTORS MAKING PARK AUDITORIUM POSSIBLE

The Greene County Home-Coming committee was highly gratified Thursday regarding the outlook for many names of donors to the Shawnee Park auditorium which will go into the cornerstone at the exercises Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

Generous donations have come from many sources, the committee reports. Many school children have contributed fifty cents each, and there have been several donations of $25 each. Names of even the smallest contributors will be on the list that will be enclosed in the cornerstone.

The committee reported that a business man gave $100 and the names of him and his wife will be on the list and this donation was followed by another of similar amount by another business man. With donations continuing to come in, the committee hopes that by the time the cornerstone is laid, the building will be free of debt.

HEADQUARTERS FOR HOME-COMING MOVE TO NEW LOCATION

Announcement is made by Chairman T. H. Zell that permission was obtained Wednesday night for use of a room at 17 E. Main St., formerly occupied by the Styles Shoe Store, as a new location for headquarters of the Greene County Home-Coming Association.

Zinn and Robbins, Columbus realtors, acting for Green Stores, Inc., a chain store firm, which has obtained a lease on the building from H. E. Schmidt, owner, gave Home-Coming officials permission to occupy the room free of charge until September 1. The room is vacant at present.

Arrangements were being made for the transfer of headquarters to the new location Thursday. A telephone is being installed and office equipment moved over.

The association was advised that it must vacate the room at 33 Green St., formerly used as headquarters because it is being rented by the owner of the building, Mrs. W. J. Cherry, Federal Pike.

Vessel in Stirring Rescue

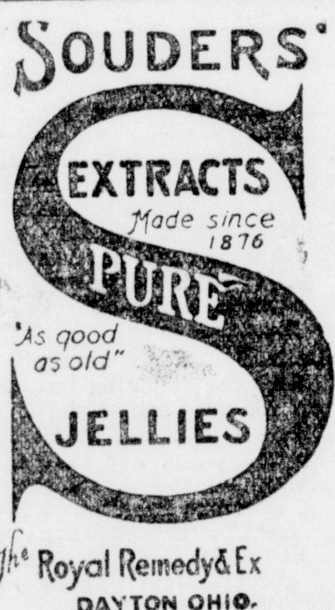

The S. S. Minnewaska, the ship which rescued Captain Frank Courtney and his three companions of the Dornier-Napier flying boat "Whale"; Captain Frank H. Claret, master, who directed the stirring drama, and Seaman Frank Harlow, the lookout with the "nine-mile eyes," who first sighted a tiny speck off to starboard.

ruption as possible, I instructed my secretary not to send anything to me unless it was of the utmost important business nature.

"In looking over matters which have accumulated during my absence I find your letter of recent date together with some proof sheets which you sent therewith. The copy of your book has been read with great interest. I think the volume will be highly cherished by the people of Milan, particularly those born in Milan—amongst them myself.

"I am sorry that I shall be unable to add little of any value to your complete publication because I left Milan for Michigan when I was seven years old, consequently I have only faint and random recollection of these early days." (Historians have contended that Edison, who was born in Milan in 1847, was "between four and five years old" when with his parents, Samuel and Nancy Edison, he moved to Port Huron).

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Personal and confidential:

The mama of a cutie imported from Europe as leading woman for a certain male star, is being sent home because of too much interference in her blonde daughter's affairs and affairs, "Mamas" and production supervisors are film-dom's most unpopular people. More than one mother of a star has been barred from the studio as a nuisance.

Vilma Banky is now one of Hungary's national heroines, and her success has caused the government to institute movie-making courses in all public schools. No actor ever had a more loyal following than the late Rudolph Valentino.

Roland, et al., have all been tried and found wanting. Anyway, the popularity of the type seems to have passed with Valentino, for now the hairy he-man—George Bancroft, Milton Sills, George O'Brien—who wins the wimmin with brawn rather than smirks and smiles, reigns. The he-man and the collegiate type, as represented by Buddy Rogers and William Haines. On the other hand, the Latin type of woman was never more popular on the screen.

Lola Salvi found that being winner of an Italian national beauty contest didn't mean a thing to movie producers when she journeyed from Rome to Hollywood to seek film fame, and for a year she pined in the shadows of the cameras. Then her beauty stood out in an extra mob and she was picked for leads. Now she's figuring on buying the hamlet her home is in as a present for her folks.

A Valentino club has been organized in Chicago. It will promote the exhibition of old films of the star as a means of obtaining funds to erect a memorial art theater. And United Artists reports that it continues to receive hundreds of requests for photos of Valentino.

Incidentally, no near successor to Valentino as a portrayor of Latin-lover types has materialized, despite strenuous efforts of producers to uncover one. Ramon Navarro, Don Alvarado, Gilbert

FOUR-H CLUB SHOW WINNERS AT COUNTY FAIR ANNOUNCED

Bruce Bickett, 17, New Jasper Twp., exhibited the first prize Hereford calf, which was also adjudged the grand champion of the 4-H Club calf show at the Greene County Fair which closed last Friday.

Ralph Turner, Beavercreek Twp., exhibited the first prize Angus calf, and Herbert McKay, Caesar Creek Twp., had the first prize calf in the Shorthorn class for the third time in three straight years.

Robert Smith, Jefferson Twp., won the special prize of a $30 sweater, offered by the Critteron Clothing Store, Xenia, for submitting the best written report of his calf in the club. Another special prize of a hog box, offered by the Adams-Thuma Lumber Co., Jamestown, for the best exhibit in the breeding class of the pig club, went to Darrell Martin, Jefferson Twp.

Nine food and clothing teams were in competition for the trips to the Ohio State Fair. The two free trips were won by the Caesar Creek Food Club, Lucille Stroup and Grace Thomas, receiving the trip, and the Clifton Clothing Club, May Young and Ione Eckman, receiving the trip.

Five Livestock Crops Demonstration Teams also demonstrated. The trip was won by the Poultry Demonstration team from Clifton consisting of Granville Printz and Stewart Corry. These three teams along with the Dairy Calf Judging team will represent Greene County at the state fair.

The expenses of these teams are donated by the business men of Xenia.

Fourteen clothing clubs and six food clubs, representing every township in Greene County, exhibited their work at the county fair.

Other exhibits included the County Dairy Calf Club, of seventeen members; County Beef Club, of fifteen members; Potato Club, of thirteen members; four pig clubs, of twenty-one members, and two poultry clubs, of eighteen members.

Following are the names of the prize winners in each club and the leader in charge.

alliance between league members and utility lobbyists and their alleged influence upon the state legislature.

Numerous members of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, as friends of Congressman Begg, took vigorous exception to the recent issuance by Dr. E. J. Moore, superintendent of the league, of copies of a "sample" ballot which endorsed Cooper's candidacy. These protestants claimed that, due to his record in congress as a dry, Begg was entitled to the league's endorsement on a party with that accorded Cooper.

Superintendent Moore replied that the endorsement of Cooper was in accord with an agreement, to which Begg was a party, made months ago.

Moore early today had not replied to a letter sent him by Lester D. Hill, Bowling Green, Wood County dry leader, adversely criticizing the league's endorsement of Cooper. Neither had Moore answered an open letter from Rev. P. B. Cuppett, Delaware, asking that the league immediately rescind its endorsement of the candidacy of Congressman Martin L. Davey, Kent, for the Democratic nomination for governor. Declaring that Governor Al Smith, of New York, Democratic candidate for president, was being supported by Davey, Rev. Mr. Cuppett charged that Davey obtained the league's endorsement under false pretenses.

"It is evident you have many policies, but not any principle," Hill wrote Moore.

"You endorse two dry candidates for the short term for U. S. sena-

Mrs. Steele Says of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pratt, W. Va.—"I was so weak and nervous that I was in bed most all the time and I am only 30 years old. I saw your advertisement in a magazine and after I had taken three doses of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could feel that I was better. After taking two bottles I began doing my work and I feel like a new woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and say it will do all it claims to do and more. I will gladly answer all letters I receive."—Mrs. S. E. STEELE, Pratt, W. Va.

tod (Marshall and Dick) when you called Burton wet on the other side." Moore was requested by Hill to explain whether the League applies one policy to G. O. P. gubernatorial candidates and another to other Republican candidates.

Begg, it was announced, will make addresses this afternoon and tonight at Cleveland while Cooper and Turner are scheduled to talk this afternoon at the Allen County Republican "home coming", in Critt's Grove, near Lima. Cooper also was to speak this forenoon at the Wayne County Fair.

In an address at Akron last night, Begg stated that it was his ambition "not only to help Ohio keep step with the progress being made in other states, but for Ohio to set the pace." He stressed the need for a conservation program. Turner, in an address at Cincinnati, expressed belief that "the draft would be any Ohio politician that would attempt to take over the administration of the state over to the Anti-Saloon League, its chosen candidate."

Cooper's qualifications for the governorship were praised by M. Julia E. Foraker, a Cincinnati widow of former governor Joseph B. Foraker. "Just now Ohio needs a business man of large experience and from every standpoint, Mr. Cooper is the best equipped every way," she declared.

More Charm— no blemishes now

UNDERNEATH a clear, smooth skin, healthy tissues—full of rich, red blood—thrive.

No worry about pimples now. Instead there is a certain satisfaction that gives confidence.

All this because rich, red blood is Nature's way of building and sustaining the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—through the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

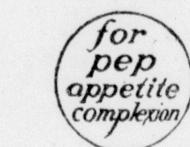

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. I took a course of S.S.S. It cleared my face and back. I think S.S.S. is wonderful. I have told many friends about S.S.S., and they are getting as much benefit as I did."—Miss Ruth Gahn, 1134 Elden Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

HURRICANE SWEEPS OVER FLORIDA

REPORT 1000 KILLED AS VOLCANO ERUPTS

LONDON, Aug. 9.—One thousand persons were reported killed and 600 injured in a violent eruption of the volcano Rokotinda on the island of Paloweh, off the Malay Peninsula, according to a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam this afternoon quoting reports received there from the Dutch East Indies.

The eruption, according to the Central News message, was accompanied by a series of terrific earthquake shocks. Six villages were said to have been destroyed.

A large section of the seaboard was submerged and nine trading vessels were sunk.

The quake threw up mighty waves which rolled shoreward leaving destruction in their wake.

FLYER KILLED

MAURICE DROUHIN

MAURICE DROUHIN, FAMED FRENCH ACE, FATALLY CRUSHED

Mechanic Killed Outright As Plane Falls In Trial.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—Maurice Drouhin, noted French aviator, died today from injuries received when the tri-motored monoplane "Rainbow" in which he was to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight next week crashed to the ground at Orly flying field during a trial flight.

Drouhin's mechanic, Lanet, was killed outright in the crash. Two others aboard the plane, Glancon, an engineer and Manuel, a radio operator, were injured.

The crash was viewed by Rene Couzinet, designer of the plane, and Joseph Lebrun, French World flier, who was to have accompanied Drouhin on his trans-Atlantic attempt as navigator.

Had been aboard the plane on all its previous flights and had stayed on the ground this time "because he wanted to see the plane in the air," Lebrun missed going up in the plane because he arrived at the flying field late. Both were deeply shocked by the tragedy.

BUSINESS MAN DIES ON HONEYMOON TOUR

BELFAST, Ireland, Aug. 9.—Charles Rutherford Crouch, a business man of New York and Erie, Pa., died of pneumonia today while on a honeymoon tour of Europe. His wife was at his bedside when he died.

Crouch's body will be embalmed and shipped to New York aboard the liner Franconia on Saturday.

Crouch was described as a banker and mill owner. His home was at Erie, although his business interests compelled him to spend a great deal of time in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Crouch had decided to return to New York on Aug. 4 but cancelled this plan when they found they could not get adjoining cabins on the liner Mauretania. While waiting for a later ship they decided to make a sight seeing trip to the Killarney Lake region. While boating a shower came up and Crouch's clothing was soaked. He was forced to row twelve miles before he could get into dry clothing. He caught a severe cold which developed into pneumonia. He died at a hospital in this city.

SERIOUSLY HURT

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—Daniel Ross, 45, Zanesville, is in Mt. Carmel Hospital here today with a possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries, suffered when he was struck by a taxicab last night, according to hospital authorities. His injuries are regarded as serious.

SMITH IS AWAITING REPLY FROM PASTOR REGARDING DEBATE

Governor To Insist On Holding Debate In Calvary Church

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Governor Al Smith today was awaiting with keen interest a formal reply from the Rev. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, New York, whom he challenged to debate after the clergyman had characterized him as the deadliest foe in America to moral progress.

Dr. Straton's suggestion that the debate take place in Madison Square Garden and that later the campaign through the south, debating Smith's political career, will be flatly rejected by the governor, according to his advisers. The executive will insist that Dr. Straton permit him to defend his stand on moral issues from the pulpit of Calvary Church where the attack originated.

In the event that Dr. Straton refuses to open his church to the governor the latter plans to issue a formal statement within the next few days in which he will reply not only to the New York minister but also to William Allen White, Kansas editor. White recently assailed the governor, insisting that his record when a member of the state assembly showed he always voted to protect the saloon and the liquor traffic.

In his letter to Dr. Straton the governor suggested that they meet in debate any time during the week of September 2. It was learned today, however, that Smith is so anxious to answer the charge that he is a foe to moral progress that he will accept any date suggested by the New York clergyman, provided it is after August 22, the date of his official notification.

If the meeting is arranged in Dr. Straton's church there is only one other request the governor will make—that the debate be broadcast through a network of radio stations. The governor desires the radio hookup so he can tell the voters of the country just where he stands on all the moral issues of the day.

In the meantime the governor is working hard to complete his acceptance speech by the middle of next week. He expects to confer here shortly with Democratic leaders from several states.

ACCUSES G. O. P. OF WHISPER CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Charges that the Republican party is lending both moral and financial support to "disreputable" Democratic defeatists in the south, were made in a statement today by Senator Edward J. Edwards, (D), of New Jersey.

The southern die-hards were connected by Edwards with the "religious whispering campaign," which, he charged is being directed against Governor Al Smith.

"If a Catholic can not be elected to the presidency it is time both Catholics and Protestants were apprised of the fact so that the country will know that the eighteenth amendment is not the only provision of the constitution that is being nullified," Edwards declared.

The real issue of the campaign, Edwards said, is prohibition. He declared that if Hoover "straddles the liquor issue" he will lose not only every large industrial eastern state, but thousands of votes in the corn belt.

PITCHER TO WED

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 9.—Following the game between Toledo and Columbus here today Garland Buckeye, mammoth Southpaw pitcher, was to hear wedding bells ring for himself and Miss Mildred Schwab, of Milwaukee. Club officials and his Toledo team-mates were to attend the ceremony in Collinwood Avenue Presbyterian Church. Buckeye formerly hailed from Cleveland and the Giants.

XENIA DEPARTMENT STORE INVOLVED IN BUSINESS DEAL HERE

Outside Interests Acquire Leading Dry Goods Firm

Rumored sale of the Jobe Bros., department store, E. Main St., to outside interests, was apparently given credence Thursday when incorporation papers were granted the Jobe Brothers Company in Columbus.

The new corporation is capitalized at $50,000 with Thomas Lewis, Frank E. Gregg and James A. King, as incorporators.

Mr. Gregg and Mr. Lewis are said to be eastern men, while Mr. King is connected with Marshall Field Company of Chicago. The purchase is understood to have been made for their own company and is not connected with any other organization.

C. L. Jobe, who has operated the Jobe Bros. store alone since the death of his brother, Riley Jobe, an original partner in the enterprise, a number of years ago, declined to make a statement Thursday, saying one of the new incorporators would be in Xenia Thursday or Friday, at which time a formal statement, explaining the change, would be issued for publication.

The store has long been one of the leading dry goods and department stores of Greene County. It was established in its present location, in a room half the width of the present store, and later expanded to its present proportions. Several years ago the building was entirely remodelled, including a handsome new front, and the interior changed and refurnished until it is one of the most attractive stores of its kind operated in any city the size of Xenia. The store proper occupies two floors with a third story used for stock room purposes.

BOTTLE PEDDLER IS SOUGHT FOR MURDER OF WEALTHY WOMAN

Victim Apparently Robbed; Assailant Makes Escape

CLEVELAND, Aug. 9.—A bottle peddler was sought by police today in connection with the murder of Mrs. Agnes Klossowski, 69-year-old divorcee, reputed to have been wealthy, whose body, bound and gagged and clad only in a nightgown, was found in bed at her east side home early this morning. She had been strangled.

Described as a foreign-born and about 55 years old, the bottle peddler is believed to have been one of the last persons to see the woman alive.

Found by a roomer, Mrs. Stella Volk, when she returned home at 2:50 o'clock this morning, the body was stretched across the bed, a shopping bag hanging from the head, with the leather handle tightly twisted about the neck. Radiator tape had been used to bind the woman's arms behind her back. Police believe the murder was committed between 10 last night and 2 this morning.

No money was found in the house, leading detectives to the belief that the murderer obtained some loot. Drawers from the tables and bureau were thrown on the floor, clothes scattered about, and the house ransacked.

Though police say the bottle peddler may not have been involved in the murder, they believe the theory was advanced that the aged woman was slain as the result of an argument over money matters, and the man sought may be able to shed some light on the crime. The bottle peddler, detectives said, supplied the woman with bottles in which she kept home-made beverages.

RUSSIANS APPROVE OHIO WATERWORKS

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—Two Ohio city waterworks today had been highly praised by three officials of Moscow, Russia, who are touring the United States procuring data for the construction and improvement of like enterprises in their own country. Columbus and Marion waterworks plants were visited by the delegation. The Russians are J. Andronov, president of the bureau of Moscow, A. Prudnikov, manager of the waterworks in Moscow; and S. Ozerov, chief chemist at laboratory. Their comment was that the Buckeye waterworks was "particularly well organized."

NICARAGUANS KILL MARINE

FLORIDA HURRICANE RECALLS DISASTER OF 1926

A gale approaching that of September, 1926, in fury, a section of Florida is taking toll of the damage done by hurricane which leveled telephone poles, blew down trees, snapped light and telegraph wires and tied up shipping. Above, Lake Worth and West Palm Beach in the path of the storm. Below, a map of the affected area, and a 1926 view of wreckage in the hurricane-struck part of Florida at that time.

CANDIDATES SWING INTO HOME STRETCH OF OHIO'S PRIMARY

Wet And Dry Fight Prominent In Campaigns

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—Candidates for positions on the Republican and Democratic state tickets were swinging into the home stretch today in the political race which ends at Ohio's state-wide primaries next Tuesday.

Winners of the primary contest, as nominees of their respective parties, will qualify as entrants for the major race which terminates at the polls during the general elections next November.

There are sixty-four candidates for the nominations for state offices to be made at Tuesday's primaries. Of these candidates, thirty-six are Republicans and twenty-eight Democrats. The primary election will result in the selection of nominees for governor, lieutenant governor, U. S. senator (two to be chosen by each party), secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, attorney general, and judges of the Ohio Supreme Court (two to be chosen by each party).

Ohio voters, also will nominate candidates for congress, for the Ohio Senate and house of representatives and for numerous county, municipal, village and other local offices.

Chief interest, to date, in the present state political campaign has been in the contest for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Partisan feeling, on a number of occasions, registered fever heat during the past two or three weeks in connection with this contest.

The Ohio Anti-Saloon League has figured conspicuously in the efforts which are being made by Congressman James T. Begg, Sandusky; Myers V. Cooper, Cincinnati; and Attorney General Edward C. Turner, Columbus, to win the G. O. P. gubernatorial nomination. Turner has been steadfast in his attack upon officials of the league and in his endeavor to put an end to what he termed an improper

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 9.—Life guards searched the Licking River near Covington, Ky., today for the bodies of Rollie Yelton, 36, and his three children who drowned while Mrs. Yelton, a baby in her arms, looked on.

Yelton and his family went to the banks of the river yesterday to fish. Esther, 7, playing in the water was carried away by the strong current. Her father, sister, and brother, Clifford, lost their lives trying to rescue her.

HOOVER BARS "MUDSLINGING" FROM PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Aug. 9.—With his formal notification forty-eight hours away, Herbert Hoover today barred "mudslinging" from his campaign for the presidency.

The Republican nominee let it be known that he will not countenance any personalities in the campaign either against his Democratic rival, Gov. Alfred Smith or other prominent Democratic party leaders. He placed "mudslinging" under the same ban he recently put upon the "barnstorming" plans and "ballyhoo" programs, devised by his enthusiastic personal friends.

The candidate was looking forward today to the arrival of Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the notification committee. Senator Moses will deliver the notification address at the exercises here Saturday in Stanford stadium. A copy of Moses' speech was sent the nominee some time ago and he returned it to the senator with a number of suggestions, which materially changed its contents.

Moses will bring the revised speech with him. It was said the speech would be perfunctory in accordance with Mr. Hoover's wishes and devoid of the "wisecracks" which illumined the senator's address as permanent chairman at the Kansas City convention.

The nominee will celebrate his 54th birthday Friday.

PHILADELPHIA MAN WILL HEAD EAGLES

No Kisses When Ex-Champ Meets Fiancee—Wedding In Fall Or Winter.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—Edward J. Ryan, Philadelphia, was unopposed for election today as grand worthy president of the Grand Aerie Fraternal Order of Eagles, holding their national convention here.

Other nominees for grand aerie officers who were unopposed were: C. J. Chenu, Sacramento, Cal., grand worthy vice president; R. F. Schmidt, Milwaukee, grand chaplain; John Parry, San Francisco, grand secretary; Joseph Dowling, Dayton, grand treasurer.

A parade with 15,000 Eagles in the line of march was to feature today's program.

MINES OPENED

BARTON, O., Aug. 9.—Barton mines of the V. and O. Coal Company were operating today on the open shop system with 15 former employees entering the pits, it was announced here. Union pickets surrounding the mine, but offered no interference with the non-union workers as they entered the mines. Capacity output by fall is predicted by the owners.

AMERICAN FORCE IS ATTACKED; NATIVE BANDITS LOSE TEN

Three Marines Are Hurt; Planes Aid Search For Rebels

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, Aug. 9.—One American marine was killed and three others seriously wounded in a sharp clash with native bandits on the banks of a little stream sixty miles from Bokay, Capt. E. G. Howard, of Oakland, Cal., in charge of the marine detachments here, revealed today.

A detachment of marines commanded by Captain M. A. Edson, of Burlington, Vermont, was attacked by a large force of bandits while encamped on the banks of the stream, according to Howard. Fierce fighting followed in which ten of the bandits were killed.

The marines were greatly outnumbered but quickly organized their forces and put the bandits to rout. News of the encounter came when planes brought the wounded marines here for medical attention.

Private Myer Sengle, of Hartford, Conn., was killed in action.

The wounded marines are Private Thomas Paine of Roxbury, Mass., Private Tusel Shoenberger, of South Charleston, W. Va., and Private Melvin Mosier, of Topeka, Kan. All three are expected to recover.

Captain Edson sent word that he is now following the bandits. Planes were sent from here to assist him in tracking down the guerrillas. It is believed the marauders were remnants of General Sandino's forces.

Major Harold Utley, commanding the marines in the eastern area of Nicaragua, is now at Bokay. Captain Howard is in charge here during his absence.

FIVE INJURED WHEN BUS LEAVES ROAD

LAGRANGE, Ind., Aug. 9.—Twenty-five persons were recovering here today from injuries received when a speeding Greyhound bus, bound for Cleveland from Chicago, left the road and overturned in the ditch about six miles west of here. Ten others on the bus escaped unhurt.

The blinding glare from an approaching car at a sharp turn in the road had caused the driver of the bus to swerve too far and the bus leaped over the bank into the ditch six feet below.

Passing motorists and citizens of Lagrange took the injured to a hospital for treatment. None is expected to die.

AUTOIST FINED

Pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving, Samuel Wilson, colored, was fined $10 and costs by Judge S. C. Wright in Probate Court Wednesday. Wilson was arrested by a deputy of the sheriff's office.

"GENE" AND "JOE" MAKE LOVE

No Kisses When Ex-Champ Meets Fiancee—Wedding In Fall Or Winter.

SOUTH BRISTOL, Me., Aug. 9.—With guards patrolling the shores of St. John's Island and cut off from the mainland by water, Gene Tunney and "Polly" Lauder today were discussing their wedding plans in what was described as "a perfect love sanctuary."

The engagement of Tunney and Miss Mary Josephine Lauder, having been formally announced by the girl's mother, Mrs. George Lauder, interest turned to the date of the wedding, a ceremony which will unite the world's heavyweight champion who relinquished the title, and the "$50,000,000 heiress," member of a socially prominent and wealthy family. The wedding will take place "in New York in the late autumn or winter" was the only announcement.

Osculatory greetings were missing when Gene and "Polly" met upon his arrival at the landing of the Lauder estate. As the launch containing the retired champion stopped and Tunney stepped ashore he was greeted with a cheery "hello Gene," "hello Joe" was his reply. The young couple walked toward the Lauder estate arm in arm. Wylie Erskine, the only eye-witness to the meeting told of it today. Gene evidently calls Miss Lauder "Joe", although she is known to her girl friends as "Polly."

A confidential friend of Tunney's disclosed today that the engagement existed for several months before the Tunney-Heene fight. Tunney is Roman Catholic while his fiancée is a member of the Episcopal Church.

Close friends of Tunney today denied a rumor that Tunney planned to change his religion prior to his marriage. They pointed out the easy manner in which religious differences could be surmounted under the rules of the church and also of Tunney's faithful attendance at the church of his choice.

The marriage will not alter Tunney's plans for a tour of Europe, he having already booked passage for August 16. Arriving aboard, Tunney plans a walking trip through France and Germany with Thornton Wilder, author of "The Bridge of San Luis Rey."

CITRUS SECTION IS DAMAGED AS STORM SWINGS WESTWARD

Seaman Hurt During Daring Rescue; Damage $5,000,000

ABOARD S. S. ALGONQUIN, Aug. 9.—(Via Radio to International News Service)—Seaman Washington of the Mallory liner Algonquin is suffering today from a fractured skull sustained when he aided in the rescue of five men adrift in the motor boat Clementine May, eighty-five miles north of Jupiter lighthouse on the east coast of Florida yesterday. The heavy seas, whipped up by the hurricane which has been sweeping Florida, made the rescue difficult and Washington was injured in helping to get the five men aboard the steamship.

The 300 passengers aboard the Algonquin cheered Captain B. W. Leek for stopping to rescue the crew of the launch when the steamship was being badly buffeted by the high seas herself.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 9.—South central Florida and the west coast were isolated today as the tropical disturbance that struck west from Winter Haven to Ocala, and Wednesday hurried itself across the state toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Scores of towns in the rich citrus section were plunged in darkness last night when the fifty-mile gale tore down power lines in an area of about thirty miles, from Winter Haven to Ocala.

Winter Haven, Kissimmee, Orlando, Lake Wales and many other little towns were in the path of the storm, and the same damage that was done at Jupiter, West Palm Beach, Fort Pierce and other cities on the east coast was done in the south central section and the west coast of the state.

Houses were unroofed, trees and shrubbery unrooted, windows broken, but the most damage was suffered by fruit growers and public utilities, such as railroads and power and wire companies.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 9.—Centering over the rich citrus belt in the south central part of the state after causing damage to the east coast estimated at $5,000,000, the hurricane which has been ravaging Florida for the past two days rapidly neared Tampa and the Gulf coast towns early today.

Rising winds of from forty to seventy miles per hour were reported from towns fifty miles east of Tampa. In that city gale warnings were issued and shipping was held to the harbor.

No loss of life had been reported from the storm center early today, but nearly all wire communication was down. It was feared, however, that the rich citrus orchards in the path of the tropical storm would be ruined.

Meanwhile towns of the lower east coast as far south as Palm Beach, engaged in removing the debris left in the wake of the hurricane, were warned by the weather bureau that another storm was sweeping in from the sea. This new disturbance was believed to be centering about 100 miles southwest of Porto Rico early this morning, and moving northwest or west northward.

Indications were that the second storm would exceed its predecessor in intensity, the weather bureau reported. Last night, however, it was of but moderate intensity.

The total damage done by the tropical storm that lashed the Florida east coast for a stretch of 125 miles between Palm Beach and Titusville may exceed $5,000,000, it was conservatively estimated here.

The greatest damage was suffered by the public utility companies, when miles of wires were torn down by the gale, leaving this territory without power and wire service for many hours. Telephone communication had been partially restored today.

Crops and young fruit trees suffered also, and scores of houses of light frame construction were unroofed in Fort Pierce, Vero Beach, Stuart, Melbourne and towns in that vicinity. Canal Fort, Pahokee and places on Lake Okeechobee shore escaped with comparatively light damage.

No casualties were reported.

SMITH WILL ATTEND BRENNAN FUNERAL

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Governor Alfred E. Smith will leave late today for Chicago where tomorrow he will attend the funeral of George E. Brennan, veteran Democratic leader of Illinois.

Following the funeral the governor plans to immediately return to Albany to put the final touches on the speech he will deliver August 22 when he formally accepts the presidential nomination.

The governor and the late Democratic leader had been close friends since 1920.

AIRPLANE VICTIM COUSIN OF XENIAN

Wendell Pavey, prominent Cincinnati automobile dealer who with J. L. Bovis, Cincinnati, was killed when their airplane crashed near Lukens Airport, Cincinnati, Wednesday morning, is a cousin of Mrs. A. B. Kester, N. King St., and a brother of Mrs. D. J. Davies, Cincinnati, formerly of Xenia.

Pavey and Bovis were on their way to attend a golf match at Akron, between Cincinnati and Akron automobile dealers. They became lost in a heavy fog just after taking off from Lukens Airport at 8 a. m. against the advice of airport officials, who warned them that flying in the heavy fog in a plane not equipped with instruments for "blind flying" was impossible.

Bovis, who had been flying for about two months and who recently graduated as a pilot at Lukens Airport, was in the cockpit and Pavey spun the propeller for the take-off.

Because the plane was a dual control affair, officials at the airport were unable to state which of the two men was piloting the plane. The plane crashed in a cornfield about a mile and a half east of the airport.

Enjoy ESSEX Super performance and save enough to pay for a vacation

The same public discernment which made Essex the world's largest selling "Six," gives picture-like vividness to this car's enormous excess of value.

It is impressive to know that that point for point the Essex Super-Six equals or excels any car up to $300 or $400 greater cost. But cold figures can't express the drama of this Chicago school teacher who writes:

"I looked at several costlier cars first, but I liked the Essex much better in every way, and I saved enough to pay almost all expenses of my European trip."

Or this Ohio business man: "My Essex gives me every fine car quality and performance ability which our former costlier car gave, and we saved enough to pay for the whole family's touring vacation."

about that latest detour...?

They're always busy building better roads. The one you traveled yesterday may be closed today! Road repairs, new bridges, elimination of railroad crossings, any one of a dozen causes might make it temporarily unusable.

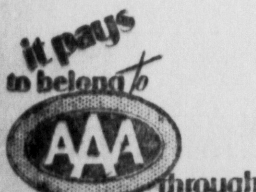

As a result, unless you have up-to-the-minute information on road conditions, you may have to take a long and tortuous detour—hard on your car, your passengers and your temper.

Members of this motor club receive such information free of cost. We keep a close check on all roads in this vicinity and can always tell you the best way to reach your destination under prevailing conditions.

And since this club is affiliated with the American Automobile Association, we keep in constant touch with road conditions in every section of America. Daily reports from 1,045 other member clubs are relayed to us through A. A. A. National Headquarters in Washington, D. C.

This is but one of the many services we offer to our members. Others include emergency road service, free legal advice, foreign service, up-to-date road maps, motor logs, and information regarding hotels, tourist camps, garages, places of scenic and historic interest, and places to hunt and fish along the way.

The cost of a membership is small—the benefits great. Come in today, or telephone for further information.

Recent Bride Welcomed To Xenia At Tea

The home of Mrs. William Douglas, S. Detroit St., was opened to eighty guests, received for tea between the hours of 2 and 4, Wednesday afternoon, to meet Mrs. Ralph Douglas (Katherine Keller).

Mrs. Douglas was assisted in receiving her guests by Mrs. Ralph Douglas and Mrs. Robert Collins and Mrs. W. J. Shadrach, both of Dayton. The reception rooms were gay with lovely bouquets of summer flowers, pink and green being the predominating colors. Pink candles were placed at either end of the dining table and a silver basket of pink asters formed the centerpiece.

APPROACHING MARRIAGE INFORMALLY ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Libby Sawyer, Tarton Springs, Fla., are informally announcing the approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret to Mr. Russell Black Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Morton Stewart, Yellow Springs, which will take place in Yellow Springs, the afternoon of August 20.

The Rev. Carl White, of the Yellow Springs Presbyterian Church will perform the ceremony. Miss Sawyer formerly attended Antioch College and for the past year has been secretary to Mrs. Fressa Baker Inman, who is assistant to President Arthur E. Morgan.

Mr. Stewart graduated from Antioch in June. He also attended Columbia University, New York City. He is now employed in the Miami Deposit Bank, Yellow Springs.

In honor of Miss Sawyer, Miss Mary Tuttle and Miss Helen Hoenle entertained with a bridge party at their home "The Lawn" Tuesday evening.

SURPRISE "SHOWER" HELD AT AFTERNOON GATHERING

Ribbons presented to the guests led to a spider web, under which were placed the gifts for Miss Josephine Conklin, bride-elect of Mr. Elwood Smith, at the afternoon party entertained by Mrs. John Kenney, New Burlington Pike, Wednesday.

The "shower" of miscellaneous gifts was a surprise to the honor guest, Miss Conklin, and she received many lovely presents.

The thirty guests were entertained on the lawn during the afternoon, with contests and games. An ice course was served. Gay-colored Japanese lanterns combined with the attractive frocks of the women guests in making the scene a pretty one.

Mr. Charles Kohler, Wilmington, was the only guest from a distance.

XENIA RESIDENT IS HONORED BY HOSTESS

Mrs. J. F. Harshman, N. King St., was honored when Mrs. Nellie Wissinger, Springfield, entertained with luncheon, Thursday at her home, 124 W. College Ave.

The guests included: Mrs. Harshman, Mrs. Charles Brill, Osborn; Mrs. John Finley, Urbana; Mrs. Beese Baker and Miss Virginia Baker, Urbana; Miss Capitola Conner, Belle Center; Miss Dorothy Fullerton, Huntsville and Mrs. George Raup.

MIDDLETON FAMILY HOLDS YEARLY REUNION

About sixty-five members of the Middleton family met for their annual reunion at the home of Mrs. Emma Middleton near Middleton's Corner, Sunday. A bountiful dinner was served, from tables placed in the shade of the many beautiful trees on the lawn.

A short business meeting was held, after which all enjoyed the program which was well given. The next reunion will be held the second Sunday in September, 1929, at the home of Mrs. Laura Earley.

LOCAL BRIDE FETED AT AFTERNOON PARTY

Mrs. Clarence Edler, (Yeola Purdom) this city, was honor guest when Mrs. G. A. Edler, and Mrs. Walter Squires, Springfield, entertained with a miscellaneous "shower" Wednesday.

Twenty guests were entertained, including Mrs. Charles Purdom, and the Misses Lois and Martha Purdom, from here.

MANGAN-GLASS MARRIAGE IS BEING ANNOUNCED

Miss Helmi Ruth Glass, daughter of Mr. Alonzo Glass, east of Jamestown and Mr. Leonard Joseph Mangan, northwest of Jamestown, were married in Newport, Ky., June 25. It is being announced. The couple will be united by the Rev. Father William Gockel, pastor of St. Stephens Church. They will go to housekeeping on the Mangan farm.

Miss Jean Compton has returned from a few days' visit in Belmont with friends.

American Legion Auxiliary will meet Monday evening, August 13, at 7:30. Miss Loree, hostess. Miss Imogene Dean, Mrs.

MEETING IN PARK.

The Missionary Society of the First Reformed Church held a meeting in Shawnee Park Wednesday afternoon. Miss Lena Hetzel had charge of the devotions. Several poems about nature were read and Mrs. M. L. Wolf had the last chapter of the book study, entitled "The Straight Way To Tomorrow."

Xenia City Churches will unite at the United Brethren Church, Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Preparations are being made to hold the meeting on the lawn. The Rev. L. A. Washburn, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, will preach and a song service will be held.

Mrs. Myra Wright and daughter of Philadelphia, niece of Mr. J. J. Downing, arrived here last Friday, leaving later for Harveysburg. Mr. and Mrs. George Underwood and Mr. Underwood's sister, of Clearfield, Pa., were also guests at the Downing home Wednesday night. They attended the Underwood reunion last Sunday at Curtis Tomlinson's near Waynesville, when more than eighty with nine from Pennsylvania were in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sharp moved this week from E. Third St. to the lower apartment in the H. H. Conklin property, W. Second St. Mr. and Mrs. Conklin now reside in their other W. Second St. property, several doors east of the other.

The Misses Helen and Katherine Graham, Aisetta Gorham and Katherine Kelble, are enjoying a motor trip of a week or ten days to Detroit and into Canada. They spent the past week end at Russell's Point.

Anyone who can donate a home-made cake for the lawn fete to be held by the Garden Club in Shawnee Park, following the cornerstone laying Friday evening, is asked to call Mrs. C. A. Kelble or Mrs. Elsie Keyes. Proceeds of the fete will be used to purchase tables for the park.

DEMOCRATS HOPE TO NOMINATE SLATE BY WRITING IN NAMES

The Democratic party will have a full slate of candidates for county office at the November election, it was revealed by local Democratic leaders Thursday.

In order to nominate candidates for the county ticket, it will be necessary for the Democratic voters to write in the names of the candidates and place a cross opposite each name at the primary August 14, it is announced.

Following is the proposed Greene County Democratic ticket: For judge of Probate Court—Arthur George H. Smith. For clerk of Common Pleas Court—R. E. Dunkel.

For sheriff—Ralph Kendig. For county commissioner—Arthur Cummings. For county treasurer—Lawrence Barber. For prosecuting attorney—George H. Thorne, Spring Valley.

EDUCATES SON TO WIN $700,000 LAW SUIT BASED ON PLAY

By RUBY WEIL, Special Writer for Central Press and Gazette.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 2.—Sixteen years ago Harold Fendler was a child. He was probably too young to be taken to see the popular play, "Bird of Paradise," and certainly too young to know much about the suit for plagiarism which his mother filed almost immediately after its production against the author and producer, Richard Walton Tully and Oliver Morosco, respectively.

Today Harold Fendler is a man—a graduate of Stanford University and the Harvard Law School, and practicing attorney here. He is helping settle the suit which means a fortune for his mother. The case lay dormant for twelve years, from 1912 to 1924, because Mrs. Fendler decided to wait until her son could grow up, graduate from law school and investigate and prosecute the case. And as a result of his experience, he is now specializing in plagiarism cases.

Today Mrs. Fendler is theoretically $781,891 richer—or will be when the New York supreme court affirms a report made by an official referee calling for an accounting by Morosco and Tully.

Actually, Mrs. Fendler is no wealthier than she was before the referee made his report. Nor is she likely to be, for some time. The defense will appeal the case, and even though the highest court in the land should uphold her right to the fortune, representing the profits of the play and interest, the most optimistic friend does not expect Mrs. Fendler to receive $608,361 from Richard Walton Tully, and $173,529 from Oliver Morosco. Morosco filed a petition in bankruptcy in 1926. He is on the Pacific coast trying to recoup his fortune.

Tully is also on the coast, a freelance writer working for moving picture producers. Mrs. Fendler's attorneys do not hope to obtain a full settlement from him.

It is the movie rights, long sought by large producers, but held up by the litigation, which Mrs. Fendler hopes will bring her a financial reward of her long fight in the courts. As a play known all over the world, and still produced in some sections, "The Bird of Paradise" holds the promise of big returns to a movie producer, and to the holder of royalty rights.

The suit was filed in 1912, shortly after Mrs. Fendler had seen "The Bird of Paradise" during its first performance. A native of New York City, she had been deeply interested in the history and customs of Hawaii since her residence there as a girl. She had lived there for ten years, leaving when she was 18 or 19 years old. While there, accompanied by her mother, she knew the princess who inspired the character of the heroine in a play she wrote, "In Hawaii"—and, Mrs. Fendler charges, in "The Bird of Paradise," after her play was in Morosco's hands.

Returning from Hawaii, Mrs. Fendler, at that time Grace Altman, became a high school teacher and writer. For twenty years she has lived here most of the time, with her husband, Henry Fendler. She still writes and has published a number of short stories. She also has written several other plays, but has had none produced.

Miss Mary Smith, Dayton, is spending a month with her parents.

Mr. Taylor Bennington, who is working with the Fudge contractors, fell and broke three of his ribs. He is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Maddux were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hartsook last week and attended the Fair. Mrs. Dennis Kurtz and Mrs. Ed Curlett were also their guests Thursday evening.

Miss Helen Smith had her tonsils removed at Dr. Haines Hospital Tuesday morning and is doing nicely.

Miss Mina Oglesbee has returned home from Ashley, O., where she had been spending a month.

Miss Gwendolyn Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rose of New York, is engaged to John W. Mackay, son of Clarence Mackay, president of the Postal Company. Young Mackay's sister, Ellen, will be remembered for her marriage to Irving Berlin.

POSTPONE HEARING ON ABANDONMENT

A proposed hearing set for Thursday, relative to the application of the Springfield and Xenia Railway Co., for permission to abandon operations, has been continued indefinitely by the State Utilities Commission, according to an announcement Wednesday.

COURT OF APPEALS

To the Republican Voters of Greene County: A Judge of the Court of Appeals is to be nominated on your ticket at the coming primary. This being a court of last resort for litigants in the great majority of cases the selection of a judge becomes as important as selecting a member of the Supreme Court. Two Republican candidates appear on the ticket. Judge Roscoe G. Hornbeck of Madison County is a candidate, being now common pleas judge with nearly fourteen years experience in that office. The other candidate, Frank I. Brown

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE EVIDENCE OF WISDOM—Let another man praise thee, and not thine own mouth; a stranger, and not thine own lips.
—Prov. 27:2.

PICK'NG A PLACE TO GO BROKE

The world hears much of the few who make good in New York City. Of the fate of the rest not so much is heard or said unless a body is found in a gas-filled attic room or floating in the river.

In the course of a year thousands of young folk leave their homes in the country or some smaller city to seek fame, fortune and excitement in New York. A single person cannot live decently in the metropolis for less than $25 a week. Those who fail to land jobs paying as much as this soon find themselves in an environment so depressing and demoralizing as to permanently affect their lives and character.

New York has more inhabitants than it can house, feed and transport. Except for the relatively few who hit the stars, it is no longer the city of opportunity. New York is now big enough to say that of itself.

Aspiring youth should choose some other place in which to go broke. There is no place where the "broke" persons is so dead broke as in a great city.

Success comes hardest in a large city, but the greatest successes are won there. So hopeful and adventurous youth will continue leaping into this bruising and breaking maelstrom. They are willing to take the desperate chance. Fortune smiles more frequently today upon the youth who hunts success in the smaller, rapidly growing cities.

PLAYING THE STAR PART

In calling attention to the big part the United States has played since the war, Premier Mussolini, in a recent address, declared it a predominant role in the history of the world.

Why has our country forged ahead so tremendously? Partly of course it is due to our rich resources. Yet many countries have had as rich resources as we, but have made no great progress.

The secret of our progress seems to be, first, that we have spent money freely on education, so our people have learned to work intelligently. Second, we have avoided wars so far as possible, so we have not wasted our resources. Third, we give a fair measure of justice to the people, so they can be reasonably sure of keeping what they produce. Fourth, we have been quick to apply modern science to our work, so we produce efficiently.

The tremendous waste in money and human efficiency which is sapping the life of many nations through the liquor traffic has been largely eliminated. Any country with education, peace, justice, sobriety and science is bound to go ahead.

The psychologists tell us to avoid fear, and the people who are afraid of work should accept this suggestion anyway.

The problem of some political campaigns is how to make statements that don't mean anything, but will sound as if

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

GROWING UP

The delay and the difficulty of growing up furnish one of the most interesting sidelights on man. Some time ago, in a student war participated in by members of the engineering and law departments of the University of Michigan, more than 4,000 eggs of varying degrees of freshness were thrown. All the way up through life the desire to throw eggs prevails and persists. A supposedly intelligent man once said that the thing he would like most to do would be to throw an egg into an electric fan. Another man said he craved the pleasure of jumping off a woodshed roof into a bathtub full of ice cream. There is no such thing as completely growing up. Perhaps it is just as well. A world full of actual adults would be a dreary place.

WHAT DO THEY READ?

Dean Gray, of the College of Education, Chicago university, remarks that "the most voracious readers are to be found among the young adults between the ages of 17 and 36 years. Books have taken a back seat in matters of popular reading material in America. Newspapers come first in interest, magazines hold second place and books third."

If that is true it ought to give newspaper owners something to think about. If young people are going to take their impressions from today's newspapers it behooves the makers of those newspapers to give them some reading matter that is worth their time and attention. There are, fortunately, a number of newspapers in this country that are doing this very thing. The ones which are not doing it will not indefinitely continue in popularity and prestige.

DEMPSEY

Jack Dempsey has pretty well paid his way with Uncle Sam. From the slugging festivals in which Dempsey has starred since he fought his way to the heavyweight championship against Jess Willard in Toledo, the United States government has collected nearly $800,000 in taxes. Adding the taxes paid by many others who profited by the battles, the amount passes into millions. Amusement taxes netted by the government in the last ten years amount to more than 500 million dollars.

TRUE SALESMANSHIP

In a recent commercial convention, salesmanship was defined as not merely the job of inducing people to buy a certain article, but rather as an orderly effort to spread health and comfort and knowledge. The salesman who does not take a long look at his job, who does not see his work as an opportunity for achievement something worth while, who does not think of himself as a man playing a part in

of a
New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK — Johnny Moore works daily within sight of thousands of persons, but few if any of them ever see him, and as a worker he is a lonely man. He has no opportunity to pass the time of the day, and remark upon the weather or the play of the Yankees, with any of his neighbors. For Johnny is the staff steelhead of the Woolworth building, with perhaps the highest steady job in the world.

The strong winds that whip around the building tear out a lot of the mortar in the joints of the terra cotta in the towers, and he spends much of his time re-mortaring the joints. Thus is only one of his aerial jobs, and he has to be up there in all weathers.

Is his work dangerous? "You get used to anything," Looking down on men hasn't increased Johnny Moore's respect for them. "They look all alike to me. A lot of flies crawling around on the ground."

He's married and has a child, and of course his wife cautions him to be careful every morning as he leaves home.

Are movie stars loose with their money? Not a dollar, Johnny. Leaving New York for Hollywood, he diverted loungers in the lobby of his hotel with a lusty harangue about his bill.

Broadway chorus girls aren't being so careful about their weight now, for curves are fashionable again. One producer is encouraging his girls to eat baked potatoes, telling them that a 110 pound girl is the ideal girl.

Experience has taught New York merchants that a business thrives best in a block in which it has strong competition in its own line. There are 13 shoe stores in one block in Fifth street, but another is opening up.

What will Roger Wolfe Kahn do next? He has tired of most of the things that interest youths. He has had racing cars, airplanes, a jazz orchestra of his own, a show produced on Broadway, a night club of his own, all the travel he has desired. He'll be 21 soon, and in accordance with family tradition, he will have $500,000 settled upon him by his father, Otto Kahn, international banker. What will he do with it?

Sophisticated Broadwayites call the sight-seeing cars that take tourists to Chinatown, the "Gyp to Chinatown buses." Chinatown, like Greenwich Village, is only a tradition. To see the real Chinatown requires seven league boots, for it spreads all over metropolitan New York. The Orientals no longer tend to colonize. Many of them live in Long Island towns, and play tennis and golf with their Occidental neighbors. There is a group of the Chinese in Brooklyn Heights, another in The Bronx. They meet by their hair in the middle and wear blue-fours the women are bobbed and outfitted on Fifth avenue. They have radios and electric ice boxes, and I have seen them laughing at newspaper comic strips.

The hatless men movement has spread to such an extent, especially in New York, that hatless are worshipping. Mussolini, boss of Italy, which is one of the principal manufacturers of hats for export, has taken cognizance of the situation, and issued an order for all Italian men to wear hats. A friend of mine has an offer from a concern that will take him out of New York, perhaps permanently. He thinks it is a splendid opportunity and is happily making plans to take the job. He informed some friends of his who are, like himself, small town products. They expressed no pleasure over his advancement, but bespoke their amazement. "Why, you're not leaving New York, are you? You're crazy. Another friend and he is a native New Yorker. This one's reaction to the news was: 'Gee that's great! I wish I had a chance to live in a nice little town like that. New York's no place to live.'"

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

An obscure little restaurant on a side street has the best fresh cherry pie in New York. The proprietor told me that he has little competition because everybody dislikes the bother of seedling cherries.

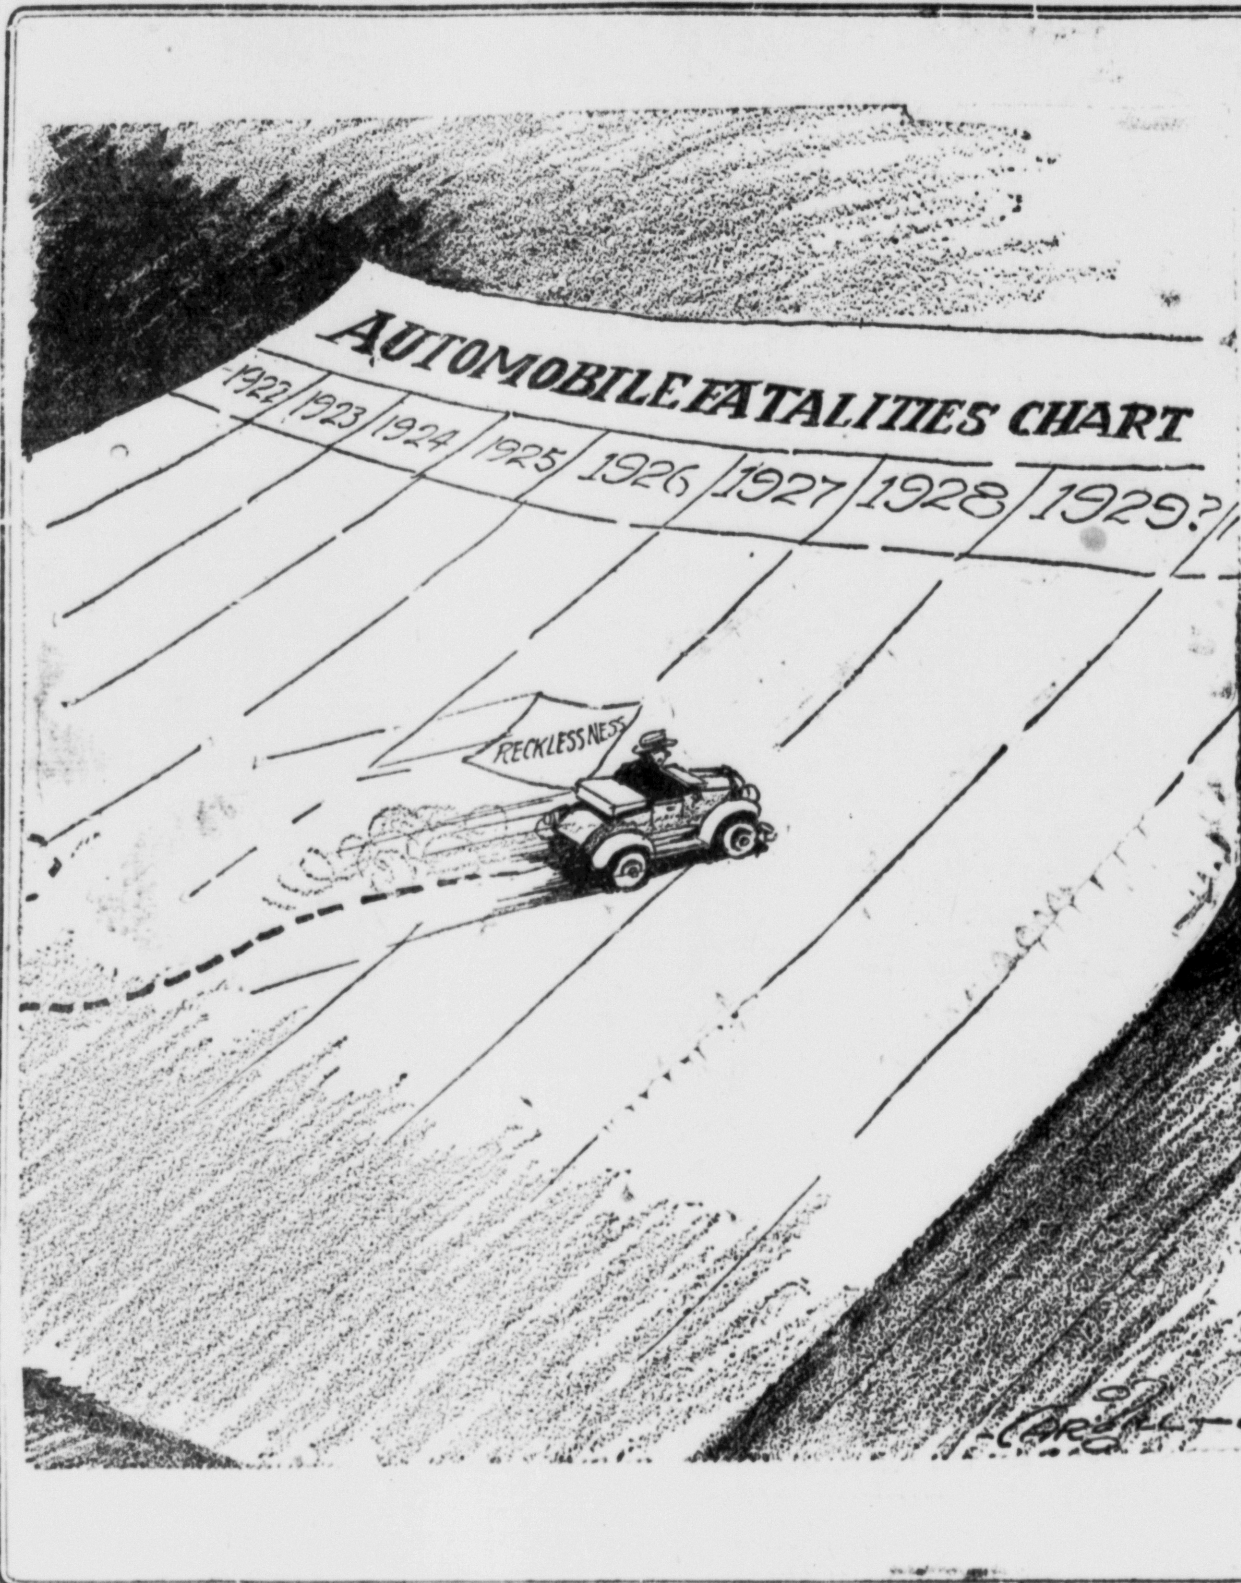

If I had a restaurant and sold cherry pies as good as his, I should take full page advertisements in all leading newspapers and magazines and make it necessary to call out the police reserve to handle traffic in front of my door. Surely, I am not the only person who would like good pie and be willing to walk out of may way to get it. Why, then, isn't pie more widely advertised?

Why is chewing gum so widely advertised and so little said about pie?

DANGEROUS CURVES AHEAD

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

The Restorative Value of Sleep

In the next few articles I have determined not to confine myself to any one subject, but to cover, as far as I can, those principles of beauty which so often escape your attention.

The first subject I am going to take up is sleep. It is a simple and certain fact that perfect health cannot exist without regular and restful sleep. It must, of course, be proportioned sensibly in the amount requisite, first to the age of the individual, and then to the demands of life. I know of no more certain means, not only to health, but to beauty as well, than loss of sleep.

And yet, it does seem to me that there is no phase of health so badly neglected. Even in infancy, I have found it not at all uncommon to witness the regular routine hours of rest disturbed by every whim of the moment.

Children are permitted to stay up on excuses ranging from a delayed dinner hour to a pleasure outing, and as a result, their little nerves are shattered, their health injured, and the regularity which should become a life-long habit is permanently disrupted. There should be absolutely no excuse for a child losing one minute of the 12 hours' uninterrupted sleep which he requires until he is 12 or 14 years old.

With women, I know very well that most of them go to bed when they can find no expedient for holding off sleep.

How we moderns do work against nature! Have you ever stopped to realize how our hours have been even arranged for us—how nature darkens the world at night and lightens it at dawn, so that we may have light and sunshine for our labors, and darkness and peace for our rest? And yet, foolishly, we turn night into day with our night clubs and our dances—and then wonder why we "age" quickly, and why our eyes become darkened or hollow, why our skin grows haggard and prematurely old.

Sleep is the great restorer. During this nightly interval of rebuilds and relaxes overstrained nerves, and tissues are calmed, physical and mental rest, nature strengthened and renewed.

I really believe that half of us would drop ten years from our faces if we worked with nature instead of against her. If we are properly, breathed properly and slept properly.

Strange as it may seem, there are thousands of people who haven't the faintest idea of the correct conditions under which they should sleep. They are the great army of "early morning grouches."

Crossness is almost always a physical condition, one not infrequently occasioned through the loss of sleep—or the lack of recuperative sleep which advancing age requires. Great exhaustion after waking up heavy stupor, headache or congestion over the forehead and temples, the swelling of face or eyelids—all these are significant of unfavorable sleeping conditions. In nine cases out of ten, I firmly believe that the trouble is poor air. Bad air is poisonous to the blood. Because we breathe more slowly and more deeply in sleep, it is imperative that every inhalation should be as free as possible from carbonic acid gas. And unless air is kept in motion through a direct current, it cannot be pure. The heavy sleep which comes so often to people who rest in unventilated rooms is exhausting, and not at all restorative.

Answers To Correspondents

In one of the letters of advice to those who are thin simply because they do not eat enough for their activities, I advised the taking of raw eggs in orange juice—two eggs in one-half glass of orange juice after each meal—as a procedure that had benefited many. One-half glass orange juice is 50 calories and a whole egg 75 calories, making 125 C. three times a day, or a total of 375 C. during the day.

Some persons do not seem to digest the white of the egg quite well, and for these, the yolk of the egg could be used alone. The yolk contains practically all of the fat and iron that these thin patients need. The egg yolk averages 50 to 60 C. each.

I have a letter from G. who wants to know if she should take the egg and orange juice in addition to the regular diet, and if she takes the whole egg would she include meat in her diet? The answer is yes, G. they are to be taken in addition to the regular diet; otherwise there would be no increase in the calories and that is what the underweight person must do—increase his calories. They should not be increased too rapidly, for normal weight, should be taken daily.

Cream is another easily digested and assimilated food, and the underweight should also gradually increase the amount of cream taken. Nuts and nut butters are also very valuable gaining foods.

The little pamphlet on reducing and gaining goes into the subject of gaining more in detail. The column rules for obtaining material we offer are to send two cents in coin and a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope for all articles except the reducing and gaining pamphlet; for this ten cents in coin in addition to the self-addressed, stamped envelope is required.

Do You Get Enough Sleep?

Insufficient sleep over any period of time is not appreciated as a definite factor that lowers resistance, I believe. Too many late parties, too much night work, etc., may be causes of nervous breakdowns. We can pretty definitely say this now since the University of Wisconsin proved in a series of studies on animals that the nerve cells are actually damaged by insufficient sleep. The animals that were experimented on were prevented from sleeping by the use of a rotating

Cheese Timbales.
Whole Wheat Bread and Butter
Lettuce With French Dressing
Butterscotch Rice Pudding
Iced Tea or Milk

Eat less meat and other heavy foods in hot weather, is the advice of the doctor. Also use hot drinks sparingly. Many feel that they need the stimulus of a hot cup of tea or coffee in the exhaustion occasioned by the hot, sticky days of mid-summer, how- ever. And some claim that a cup of hot tea really cools them better than an iced drink. The pure of lettuce takes care of the outer leaves, leaving the heart of the salad.

Today's Recipes

Butterscotch Rice Pudding—One and one-half tablespoons gelatin, one-quarter cup cold water, one-third cup rice, three cups milk, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two tablespoons butter, one cup brown sugar. Soak gelatin in cold water. Cook rice with milk in a double boiler until tender. In another pan cook the butter and sugar until sugar is melted and brown. Add this to the rice and milk. Add gelatin, turn into a mold and chill until set. Serve with whipped cream.

Cheese Timbales—Four eggs, one cup hot milk, one cup grated cheese, two tablespoons chopped green pepper, one-eighth teaspoon paprika, one-half teaspoon salt. Beat the eggs very light, add to them the hot milk, the grated cheese, pepper, paprika and salt. Grease timbale molds, fill with the mixture, set in a baking pan and boiling water and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) until the egg is set. Turn out carefully on a hot platter. Serve at once with tomato or pimiento sauce if you wish.

those who may be troubled with insomnia may not become alarmed, because lying in bed at complete rest also will recuperate the nerves almost as much as the sleep.

It is often found that those who boast of their tremendous vitality because they get along on such short hours of sleep, very frequently take short naps, and these do give an opportunity for the recuperation of the nerves. However, it is very wise to have eight hours of time for sleep, for most of us.

Itching

G.—Chronic itching is known as pruritus. Chronic itching of the whole body or of certain parts is sometimes due to a diet that is heavy in starches and sugars, causing a higher sugar content of the blood than normal. In these cases a diet—that is, one low in starches and sugars—will cure the itching. A low starch and sugar diet will often clear up other forms of skin disorders, and it is also effective in certain forms of arthritis (inflammation of the joints) and, of course, overweight and its accompanying disorders.

Behind the Scenes in
Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Saving stranded Arctic explorers is a pretty thankful job these times.

Russia, Sweden and Norway did every bit of the rescue work, following the smash-up of General Nobil's "Italia" expedition. They did it at their own expense and at the jeopardy of their own men's lives—probably at the cost of Captain Amundsen's.

If they expected to win at least a few words of praise for their toil and sacrifices, they are wiser now. All adverse critics of the Noble expedition are "slackers," according to Premier Mussolini.

Benito can hardly mean anybody but these same Russians, Swedes and Norwegians, because all criticism necessarily must have been theirs originally. Except through them, not a soul on earth knows what conditions they reached the castaways.

True, ugly charges are made—of mismanagement on the "Italia," and of still worse things after the disaster.

The complaint in Washington is that "most of these charges originate in Russia." And not unnaturally, either—considering that the Russians did 90 per cent of the rescue work, with their ice breaker, "Krassin."

But, "The obvious intent of such absurd yarns," comments the "Washington Post," "is to stir up animosity between capitalist countries."

Now, honestly, what does the "Washington Post" know about it? And what a nice note of appreciation to the soviet folk—for caving in the bow of their ice-crusher and endangering the lives of all on board, to snatch members of the Noble party from death on the polar floes.

Neither is it quite true that all charges against the "Italia" management are of Russian origin. Norway and Sweden make a few also.

Flying over the frozen northern ocean is extra-hazardous aviation, but the Russian pilot Chukhovsky risked it, looking for "Italia" survivors.

What is more, he sighted two of them, and then was himself forced down, in a position of great peril—but not until after he had signaled to the "Krassin" where to find the Italians—for Chukhovsky was bent on a rescue, no matter how he fared.

"Never mind me," he wirelessed to the "Krassin's" captain, when the latter would have turned aside to pick up his own countryman. "Save the others first."

Doesn't it seem as if most of us would be proud to meet a chap like Pilot Chukhovsky? — Bolshevik or no Bolshevik.

That is what the Russian-American Chamber of Commerce in New York thought, when it invited Chukhovsky and Prof. Samoilovich, head of the "Krassin" relief expedition, to visit this country.

But it appears that the Russian-American Chamber of Commerce took too much for granted.

Pilot Chukhovsky and Prof. Samoilovich must prove themselves "desirable aliens" before they can get passports to land in our midst—so announces the state department.

It is fair to say that state department officials evidently recognize the possibility that their attitude will be construed as somewhat ungracious, under the circumstances—that they admit some sort of an explanation to be in order.

The fact is, the department is a trifle suspicious of the Russian-American Chamber of Commerce—that is the officials' version. They have an idea that the real motive behind the chamber's invitation to Chukhovsky and Prof. Samoilovich to come here just at the present time is "to improve Russian-American relations."

That, of course, would be awful to win him back again.

BETTY ANN.

I suppose when you meet him you look at him in a weeble manner, just begging him to forgive, is that it, Betty Ann? I wouldn't if I were you. I'd just toss that little head in the air and ask by what right he censures your friends, and further, would he give up one of his friends if you disapproved of him? Of course if this won't heal your broken heart you COULD write a very humble little letter and tell him you will never, never do anything like that again.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a rich oil man of 50 and I am in love with a girl of 19. I am afraid that she will quit me when she sees my son from Yale. What can I do?" B.

Say "bless you, my children," if they do like one another. I should say, and think of her as a daughter. You will never be happy with a girl young enough to be your daughter. You will be constantly afraid of her falling for some younger man, and she will not be happy with you, even if she honestly loves you, because of your suspicion.

DINING IN THE DARK

"Well, well! Here I am telling you all about myself, and I don't know you at all. Come over and introduce yourself. Little birds," coaxed the queer fellow who had mistaken for a ghost in the darkness. I am sure there are two of you, for Turnstone told a neighbor of mine you were on the sea bank. Where are you? Perhaps you would rather I came over and visited you!"

"Wife and I shivered and buried ourselves deeper in the sea weed. 'If you don't mind I think we will go to sleep,' cried I. 'We feel so safe now, for we know you are keeping watch over us. Good night!'"

"And not another word would I say, although he called to me several times. There was something about Night Watchman that we didn't trust."

"I really believe he would gobble up up if he could," whispered I to wife. "Sh! Don't make a sound! What is he poking about for now? I'll bet a pin-feather he is searching for us!"

"I was right, he was! Evidently the fellow thought that we were fast asleep, for he began to mutter to himself. 'Tith! Where can those little birds have hidden themselves? I haven't a bit of doubt but that they would make two dainty tidbits. I haven't dined on bird since that thrush I caught a month ago. They would make a delightful change from fish and crabs. They are not water birds—that I am sure of, so they must be on the land. 'Oh, pshaw! Perhaps they flew back into the wire-grass handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, ten cents in coin with fully a 2-cent stamp to be enclosed. Ad-

while I was looking the other way. Serves me right for not keeping my mind on my business. I could have caught the fish without thinking about it, and certainly I did not need to look. I have landed fish so many times.

*THERE IS NO USE MOURNING OVER AN ESCAPED MEAL WHEN THERE SO MANY IN THE WATER

"Well, there is no use in mourning over an escaped meal when there are so many more in the water. Upon my word, here comes a lampry floating along. However, did he get loose from his rock? Well, there is one thing certain, he will never get back to it. Yum! Yum! Next to me I like a lampry best." "Hello! I am in luck! Here comes a big fish! Silly thing, his coat shines like silver. He might have known that my bright eyes would spot him. Guilt! Guilt! He was larger than I thought. Now, only I had a feast I would have had this night! Hi-ya! Little crab thinks he's cunning, but he'll never

FIREMEN TAKE TWO GAMES WEDNESDAY FROM ST. BRIGIDS

The Firemen won a double-header from St. Brigid High School in the National Football League Wednesday night, taking the first game 13 to 5 and the aftermath by 13 to 2.

Both contests were limited to seven innings by agreement. L. Downey pitched the third-placers to victory in both games while Phil Campbell was on the mound for the parochial school nine in each contest.

The league-leading Harness Club met Thursday night. Harness, with a two-game lead and only three more games to play, can clinch the league title beyond all mathematical doubt by a victory. The country club, in second place, must win this game to retain even an outside chance for the championship. Harness has defeated the D. T. C. Club by one-run margins in two previous games this season.

JOHNSON SPEAKS AT WASHINGTON C. H.

Attorney Frank L. Johnson, this morning, candidate for the Republican nomination for congressman from the Seventh District, addressed the Dutch Club, a civic organization, at Washington C. H. Thursday noon.

Attorney Johnson was accompanied on the trip by twenty-five Xenia merchants.

The Xenia candidate, who is opposing the re-nomination of Congressman Charles Brand, Urbana, will also talk before the Kiwanis Club at Marysville, O., Friday night, he announced.

Are You Ready

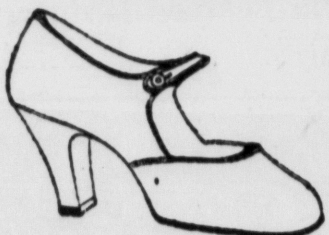

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

BECKY BEALL STILL SLICING RECORDS

Becky Beall, black mare, owned and driven by J. C. Mitchell, Mechanicsburg, O., which established a new track record for the Xenia half-mile oval at the Greene County Fair last week, also lowered the track record at the Wilmington fairgrounds Wednesday in taking the second of three straight heats in the 2:14 pace in 2:05 1-4, one and one-fourth seconds faster than the mark set last summer.

Becky Beall, a grand circuit horse, sent a new mark of 2:05 1-4 here last week in winning the $1000 2:14 pacing stage in straight heats. This bettered the former record by three-fourths of a second.

OLLIE KLEE MAY PERFORM HERE WITH XENIA RESERVES SUNDAY

Ollie Klee, former Ohio State University star athlete, may appear in the lineup of the Reserves against the Peebles, O. Tigers Baseball Club Sunday afternoon at Washington.

With Durnbaugh, the team's leading slugger, on his vacation, the Reserves are in need of a capable center fielder to take his place temporarily. Klee, the management believes, would more than fill the role.

Klee is the property of the Cincinnati Reds of the National League but is now playing semi-pro baseball in Dayton. However, he is subject to immediate recall on short notice should the Reds feel the need of his services.

Klee is a graduate of Steele High School in Dayton, where he starred in football, basketball and baseball. He later starred in various sports at Ohio State.

The Reserves will need to be well fortified for the Peebles team Sunday. L. Matheny will probably pitch for the Tigers with Michaels working for the Reserves.

The probable starting lineup of the Peebles Tigers Sunday follows: H. Thomas, 3b; J. Ruffe, ss; M. Lyons, 2b; L. Matheny, p; C. Thomas, cf; J. Kidders, rf; E. Matheny, lf; R. Kidders, c; Gaffin, lb. Johnson, an outfielder; Gardner, second baseman; Rhoe, pitcher, and Lucas, an outfielder, may also break into the lineup.

FAIRGROUNDS WILL BE TOURIST CAMP DURING HOME-COMING

The Greene County fairgrounds will be used as an auto park and tourist camp during the Greene County Home-Coming here August 26-29, it is announced.

Consent of the fair board to use the grounds for this purpose, has been obtained by the Xenia Retail Merchants' Association, which interested itself in behalf of the number of home-coming visitors expected to come here by auto.

The merchants association will be in charge of the tourist camp, and will provide a caretaker for the grounds and ample police protection for the safety of those who will make their home there during the celebration.

The grounds are equipped to provide comfortable living facilities for campers, adequately located and with plenty of room for all the visitors expected. There are plenty of good water facilities on the grounds and the association will keep the grounds lighted at night.

The association will charge a fee of 50 cents to reach automobile entering the grounds.

The merchants' association also expects to erect signs and arrows pointing the route to be taken in reaching the fairgrounds.

Possibility was also forecast that arrangements may be made by the association whereby the fairgrounds could be used permanently as a tourist camp, opening in the spring and closing in the fall each year.

The temporary arrangement during the Home-Coming was made to accommodate out-of-town people who will come to Xenia with the expectation of pitching a tent and camping in the open.

CROSSING VICTIMS HAD RELATIVES HERE

Xenia relatives have been advised that Anderson Burba, 42, farmer of south of Kenton, O.; his 3-year-old daughter, Ruth Florence, and 5-year-old son, Harold, lost their lives in a grade crossing accident at the Silver Creek crossing, six miles south of Kenton, August 6.

Mrs. Anderson Burba, 36, sustained a fractured hip and other occupants of the auto, members of the family, escaped uninjured. They were Vernon, 14, Louis, 11, James 8, and Stelton, 6. Roy, the eldest son, was not in the car.

The accident occurred when their auto was demolished by a north-bound accommodation passenger train on the Big Four Railroad.

Funeral services for the three who were killed in the crash were held August 8. Anderson Burba was a nephew of Mrs. Bell Jones, Mrs. Belle Turner, Mrs. Nan Kennedy and William Burba, all of Xenia.

POTTERY MAKER AND PIGEON FANCIER ON CHAUTAUQUA HERE

The aim of the Redpath Chautauqua Association when the local program opens next Wednesday is to give a well rounded program. The best talent that can be found in the field of music, drama and public speaking will be supplemented by two specialty numbers.

On the second afternoon of the program, Thursday, a specialty that will appeal strongly to everyone is the demonstration of pottery making by Smith Damron. He uses an old fashioned pottery wheel in making his demonstration of pottery making before the audience. He describes the preparation of clay, glazing, decorating and burning and gives an interesting history of the art of the potter. As he builds his clay vessels he likens them to character with wit, and philosophy thrown in for good measure.

In addition to his demonstration Damron displays a remarkable collection of American art pottery and chinaware, especially of rare china used in the White House. He has a replica of a dinner plate used during the Lincoln administration, of one presented to Martha Washington by Lafayette, one used by George Washington and another used during Wilson's administration, which is still being used by President and Mrs. Coolidge.

On the fifth afternoon, Monday, Frank Hollman, for five years president of the National Pigeon Association, editor of the American Pigeon Journal and pigeon expert and prize winner, is to exhibit twenty-five varieties. Mr. Holl-man was a pioneer in this field. Pigeons were the means he used to attend college, and proceeds from his work with the birds gave him his start in business.

Pigeons were his hobby, and then through some queer quirk in fate, as has happened with other men, the hobby became his sole business. When he brings his "business" to Xenia it is prophesied there will be general satisfaction for that "queer quirk" which made pigeons Frank Hollman's life work. Acrobats of the pigeon world, birds that seem almost to possess reason will perform for Mr. Hollman in his lecture-demonstration here. He will have many interesting things to say about the homer pigeon.

FESS SAYS TREATY TO ADVANCE PEACE

Although it cannot outlaw war, the Kellogg treaty will advance materially the interests of peace, United States Senator S. D. Fess, Yellow Springs, declared in an address before Wittenberg College summer students at Springfield Wednesday. He also declared against modification of the United States' stand on the World Court and on the League of Nations.

"I thought our adherence to the World Court would be a step forward," he said, "but our conditions were not acceptable to the other nations. Therefore the door was closed."

"But the United States will take no further step until her proposals have been accepted. We will not modify our views on the League of Nations."

KONJOLA BANISHED EVERY SYMPTOM OF HEALTH TROUBLES

Xenia-Lady Says All Traces of
Neuritis and Stomach Misery
Have Been Ended

It was predicted less than two months ago that the people of Xenia would very quickly find out about the merits of this celebrated new medicine Konjola, which the Konjola Man is introducing and explaining in person to large crowds

MRS. ANNA DUNLAP

each day at the Galleher Drug Store, Xenia. Report after report is being received from men and women of this city, describing the remarkable benefits derived from the use of this surprising new compound. For instance, just a few days ago Mrs. Anna Dunlap, New Burlington, Ohio (near Xenia) made the following statement:

"Every trace of my health troubles has been banished through the use of Konjola," said Mrs. Dunlap "and I am recommending this medicine in the hope that other sufferers will give it a fair trial because I know what it will do."

"Before I ever began taking Konjola I was afflicted with neuritis that was so severe I often thought I could not bear the misery any longer. The pains seemed to settle in my limbs and this made it very hard for me to get around. It was practically impossible for me to sleep at night and during the entire day the pains did not diminish the least bit. Then I began to have trouble with my stomach and I completely lost my appetite. I did not care to eat anything and what I did manage to force down, in order to nourish my body, always caused more harm than good. Due to the acid condition there would be a bad taste in my mouth for hours after eating. Indigestion pains bothered me constantly and I never could find anything that relieved me. In fact, I was in a general rundown condition and early in the day I would become so exhausted that it was impossible for me to do my housework."

"I had been reading the papers about Konjola and the unusual recommendations this medicine was receiving from Xenia people convinced me that it had real merit. I decided to give it a trial and I have never regretted that. Konjola has turned out to be exactly what I always needed. Gradually the neuritis pains began to ease up and as I continued with the treatment they completely disappeared. It has been sometime since I finished taking Konjola and not a single trace of that ailment has returned so I know the relief is permanent. My limbs are free and limber and I can get around without suffering the least bit. Konjola also banished every ugly stomach symptom and I am eating whatever is placed before me without after effects. I never have an indigestion pain and I really look forward to meals because I know that food will never cause the intense misery it formerly did. My strength and energy has returned and I have a keener enjoyment in the daily activities. It is a pleasure to introduce such a medicine as Konjola and I will do so at every chance I get."

The Konjola Man is at the Galleher Drug Store, Xenia where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

AMERICAN SWIMMERS SET NEW OLYMPIC RECORD IN RELAY

OLYMPIC SWIMMING STADIUM, AMSTERDAM, Aug. 9.—A new Olympic record for the 800-metre relay was established today by the American team composed of Samson, Young, Weismuller and Clapp during the first elimination heats. The Americans swam the distance in 9 minutes, 38 4-5 seconds. The previous Olympic record, made by an American team in Paris in 1924, was 9 minutes 53 4-5 seconds.

The Japanese team was second in 9:59 3-5, Sweden was third and Argentina fourth.

The qualifiers for the final of the 800-metre relay are the United States, Japan, Canada, Great Britain, Hungary, Spain and Sweden.

The Canadian team won the second heat in 9:55 3-5, and Hungary won the third heat in 9:46 2-5.

Another Olympic record was broken by American swimmers in the women's 400-metre relay, when the American team won the first heat in 4 minutes 55 3-5 seconds. The American team in the eliminations today was composed of Miss Adelaide Lambert, Miss Josephine McKim, Miss Susan Laird and Miss Alina Osipowitch, swimming in that order.

BRAND ENDORSED BY COUNTY W. C. T. U.

At a meeting of the Greene County W. C. T. U. executive committee, held Wednesday, August 8, a letter was read from Mrs. Florence D. Richard, president of Ohio W. C. T. U. stating that the Ohio Women's Christian Temperance Union had endorsed Charles L. Brand for representative to Congress from the Seventh District and in accord with state action the Greene County W. C. T. U. unanimously endorsed as their choice, Charles L. Brand, who has been "a friend of the dry cause for years."

The World And All BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL IN DEFENSE OF MILLIONAIRES

Some minister of the gospel was widely quoted recently to the general effect that our American millionaires are sadly under-cultured and vulgar. The noted divine was credited with saying that our millionaires give away millions of dollars to colleges and libraries and schools as a sort of compensation to themselves for their own lack of culture. The general impression given by this speaker was that American millionaires make fools of themselves by giving away so much money to institutions of learning, thereby letting out of the bag a cat that meows out loud concerning the rich men's lack of learning.

I know exactly what the minister is driving at, and I wholly disagree with him. We have in this country some of the richest and best equipped colleges and museums and art galleries and laboratories in the world, because certain American rich men have been imbued with a desire to give to future generations of Americans advantages of education and culture that these men have not themselves enjoyed. Is there anything discreditable in that? Quite the contrary, I should think.

Is it any discredit to the immigrant father that he will deny himself the comfortable things of life in order that his sons and daughters may have college educations and better chances in the world than he had?

Is it any disgrace to the mother in moderate circumstances that she will deny herself social life and save money to put her children through school?

Well then, how may we, without accounting ourselves immoderate snobs, criticize our wealthy men for providing the means whereby the sons and daughters of thousands of Americans may attain to learning that these wealthy men themselves had to get along without?

Most of the millionaires who have become prominent in American life rose from poverty. These are the ones who have given most to educational institutions. John D.

FOR SKIN IRRITATIONS

Rockefeller had to struggle along without Latin or Greek or higher mathematics, but he has made it possible for thousands of young men and women whom he has never seen to equip their minds with some of the instruments of higher life. I'm mighty certain that I, for one, will never find it in my heart to criticize Rockefeller for that.

James B. Duke, the tobacco man, gave enough money to start on its way an institution of learning of which this country eventually will be very proud. Shall we jibe at Duke because he didn't know the rules of Chaldean syntax, or shall we revere the beneficent spirit in which he gave?

Let us not be snobbish with our millionaires, lest they run out on us and leave the Higher Learning flat!

Studebaker alone has ball bearing spring shackles restful riding!

Like the jewels of a watch, patented ball bearing shackles furnish frictionless support for each spring end—poise the chassis on polished balls of steel, sealed in lubricant sufficient for 20,000 miles and more of unattended service. These 172 polished steel balls, rolling in lubricant, permit unhampered action of Studebaker's plant springs—give to Studebaker's hydraulic shock absorbers their lightning-fast control of every recoil—provide a sum total of travel-ease no other motor car at any price has ever offered.

This restful riding supplements Studebaker's brilliant performance... proved by the fact that Studebaker holds more official records for speed and stamina than all other manufacturers combined... including the greatest record in the entire history of transportation—25,000 miles in less than 23,000 consecutive minutes.

Drive before you buy!

You may doubt that Studebaker has created the smoothest riding cars ever built—until you ride in a new Studebaker. Let us take you today, in the model of your choice, over any route you select—the rougher the better. You'll lose your doubts before you've gone a mile. You'll also know that no other car can equal Studebaker in ease of steering, acceleration and braking.

MANY CONTRIBUTORS MAKING PARK AUDITORIUM POSSIBLE

The Greene County Home-Coming committee was highly gratified Thursday regarding the outlook for many names of donors to the Shawnee Park auditorium which will go into the cornerstone at the exercises Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

Generous donations have come from many sources, the committee reports. Many school children have contributed fifty cents each, and there have been several donations of $25 each. Names of even the smallest contributors will be on the list that will be enclosed in the cornerstone.

The committee reported that a business man gave $100 and the names of him and his wife will be used on the list and this donation was followed by another of similar amount by another business man. With donations continuing to come in, the committee hopes that by the time the cornerstone is laid, the building will be free of debt. People who are considering donating to the fund, are urged to do so as early as possible. The contribution may be brought to the cornerstone laying exercises, where the name will be added on the list at the last minute before the box is sealed, but it is urged that the best way would be to contribute to M. L. Wolf, treasurer of the fund, before the exercises.

The committee believes the building has been erected with the utmost economy and the many donations received make it a truly community project. All materials used in the structure have been furnished at cost and the construction is being directed by Harry Sparks, the architect, free of charge. The committee says the building will not only be attractive but will be a permanent addition to the park that will be the source of much satisfaction for years to come.

At the cornerstone laying exercises Friday evening, the program will be in charge of Catharine Greene Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution and will be followed by a concert by the Xenia Municipal Band. The Xenia Garden Club will hold a lawn fete in the park during the evening.

The building will be completed in time for the Home-Coming, when it is expected to be the center of the programs that will feature that event.

HEADQUARTERS FOR HOME-COMING MOVE TO NEW LOCATION

Announcement is made by Chairman T. H. Zell that permission was obtained Wednesday night for use of a room at 17 E. Main St., formerly occupied by the Styles Shoe Store, as a new location for establishment of headquarters of the Greene County Home-Coming Association.

Zinn and Robbins, Columbus realtors, acting for Green Stores, Inc., a chain store firm, which has obtained a lease on the building from H. E. Schmidt, owner, gave Home-Coming officials permission to occupy the room free of charge until September 1. The room is vacant at present.

Arrangements were being made for the transfer of headquarters to the new location Thursday. A telephone is being installed and office equipment moved over. The association was advised that it must vacate the room at 33 Green St., formerly used as headquarters because it is being rented by the owner of the building, Mrs. W. J. Cherry, Federal Pike.

Vessel in Stirring Rescue

The S. S. Minnewaska, the ship which rescued Captain Frank Courtney and his three companions of the Dornier-Napier flying boat "Whale"; Captain Frank H. Claret, master, who directed the stirring drama, and Seaman Frank Harlow, the lookout with the "nine-mile eyes," who first sighted a tiny speck off to starboard.

ruption as possible, I instructed my secretary not to send anything to me unless it was of the utmost importance business nature.

"In looking over matters which have accumulated during my absence I find your letter of recent date together with some proof sheets which you sent therewith.

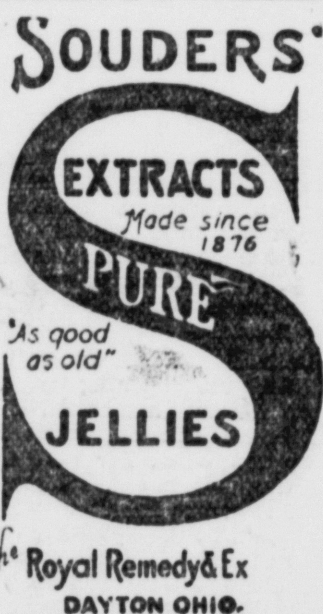

"The copy of your book has been read with great interest. I think the volume will be highly cherished by the people of Milan, particularly those born in Milan—amongst them myself.

"I am sorry that I shall be unable to add little of any value to your complete publication because I left Milan for Michigan when I was seven years old, consequently I have only faint and random recollection of those early days." (Historians have contended that Edison, who was born in Milan in 1847, was "between four and five years old" when with his parents, Samuel and Nancy Edison, he moved to Port Huron.)

"I remember, however, that every day hundreds of wagons, loaded with wheat were in the public square, but what attracted my special attention was the great quantity of oak staves which arrived in Milan daily.

"I also remember that, near the river, there was an opening in the rock from which gas emitted and that this gas was afterward lighted.

Editors note: (Milan was once one of the most important grain centers of the Middle West, hence Mr. Edison's reference to "hundreds of wagons loaded with wheat." Milan's chief industry at one time was the manufacture of barrel staves, referred to by Mr. Edison in his letter.)

MAKE-UP A Romance of the Footlights

READ THIS FIRST: Janet Mary James, eighteen, sweet and clever and good, has an ambition to go on the stage because her mother, who died the night she was born, had been a famous opera star. Janet meets Dr. Ballard Riley, who is known as a woman hater. Ballard dates her up, and Janet gets a lot of fun out of having a date with him. Janet meets Sir Henry Martindale, a fatherly old gentleman, who becomes interested in her stage career. He takes Janet to meet Mort Goldstein, famous musical revue producer. Mort has her sing and dance, and engages her for a number in his new show. Janet is attending rehearsals.

CHAPTER XX

When she was called to do her number the director was amazed at the ease with which she sang it. He thanked his stars that there was one person in the show who wouldn't have to be worked with until he darn near dropped. It seemed that every year they got dumber and dumber! He told them so—several times. But they just stood around and didn't even change their expressions.

Janet sang the number through, slowly, and made no mistakes. He noted that she read perfectly. His manner showed that he was pleased. He explained a little of the routine to her, and she did it without being told twice. It was a hot number. She pepped up and enjoyed doing it immensely.

He called the chorus and gave them a routine. They were to come on after the second chorus. While the pianist was playing it for the little girls, Janet turned to the stage director.

"That would be wonderful, done in French dialect, wouldn't it?" He slapped her on the back.

"Can you do it that way? Great! Why didn't I think of that? Red hot wild French stuff. If you can put it over like that—boy! Hot pups!"

He stopped the chorus and told the pianist to play it for her. Janet was in her glory. She loved to do numbers as she pictured her French mother would have done them.

Her red-brown eyes flashed. Her every move was one of the French comedienne. She was wonderful. The director could hardly restrain his enthusiasm until she was through. Boy! That was a wow. It would be the hit number of the show!

She finished, breathless and laughing. Corinne clapped enthusiastically, and two or three joined her faintly. But they hadn't accepted Janet—and so the majority merely sat and stared stupidly. There is always a Patsy in a show—and it looked as though she were going to be it.

Janet rode down to the Village with Corinne in the subway that night, and insisted that she go to the studio with her. She bought a few things at a delicatessen and they cooked dinner. Corinne was unstinted in her praise of Janet. She could hardly believe she had no experience.

Janet learned her address, and that night, by messenger, sent $20 in a large, square, plain envelope—with instructions that under no conditions was Miss Mallory to be told who sent it.

Five weeks of nerve racking rehearsing brought the opening night of "The Farce of 1928."

Janet did not have a chance to go home the evening of the opening show. They had rehearsed until the last moment. She was disappointed, for Ballard had told her he would telephone her at 6:30.

He had been so busy she hadn't seen him for a week. It seemed a month. Every day it seemed to her she grew to love him a little more. Every day that she did not hear from him was a lonely one.

She insisted upon Corinne eating dinner with her. Corinne begged her not to ask her any more. She felt terrible about it. All she would say was that she was not hungry and didn't want a heavy meal and was just going somewhere to get a sandwich. But Janet was adamant. It broke her heart to think that Corinne might be hungry. They had grown to be very dear friends in the month they had been palling around together.

Janet had a surprise planned for Corinne that night. She knew that Ballard would send her flowers. And she wanted Corinne to have some of them too. It would make the other girls envious. And she didn't like the way some of them spoke to Corinne. Cats! She slipped out of the theater after they got back from dinner and went to a flower shop. There she ordered a dozen American beauty roses sent to the theater to Miss Corinne Mallory. She pulled a large square envelope from her bag and instructed them to put it with the flowers and deliver them about nine o'clock at the theater.

Ballard Riley wouldn't have missed the opening of Janet's show for anything. Even if he did scold, off and on, about it, and keep reminding her that she was wasting her talent. He sat in the first row, but hadn't told her that he had only said he would try—but doctor's time was very uncertain. He had bought his ticket the day they were placed on sale.

There was a little ache of uncertainty in Janet's heart, as she sat putting her make-up on for the first time. Oh, how she wanted him to be there. She wanted him to sit where she would see him. It would help her do her number. She would do it for him alone. But suddenly her face flamed.

Oh, the costumes! It would be embarrassing. She had forgotten about them. The one for her solo number was next to nothing, and in two numbers she was draped in a scarf. Would she think about that when she got on the stage?

She set her lips and made up her mind that such thoughts were foolish. Why, it was on the stage! No one thought anything about it. How foolish she was. Especially to worry about a broomstick man like Ballard Riley and what he would think.

There were four other girls in the dressing room. All dancers who had specialty bits. They flattered among themselves, but she did not seem to be included. Once she had seen one of them look in her direction and say something about "only an amateur."

She wondered if they meant her. And if there was anything particularly terrible about being a beginner.

The girl who had said it was a big, tall girl, with red hair. The kind of hair that comes out of a beauty parlor. Her face was rather hardened, and Janet noticed she had mean eyes. Her thought was that she wouldn't like to trust her very far. She looked as though she might be a terrible cat. Her name was Floeline Deslys. Janet was sure she made the Floeline up herself and copied the Deslys.

Janet struggled with her make-up, and felt she was making a pretty bad mess of it. Corinne, in her dressing room, suddenly thought of her, and wondered if she would know how to make up.

She hurriedly washed her face and climbed the three flights of stairs down to where Janet was cooped. She greeted her with open arms. "Boy, you're a knockout in the old war paint! You sure know how to daub yourself."

Corinne surveyed Janet with her hands on her hips and shook her head. "You look like a circus. But, have courage. It took me forty years to learn how. You'll get there."

She stuck her hand in the cold cream and removed Janet's effort with a towel. Then she showed her how it should be done. Janet was surprised when she saw how big and starchy her eyes looked with the beads on them. And the red in her cheeks brought her out too, and made her look ravishingly beautiful.

She surveyed herself carefully and exclaimed, admiringly: "What a lot of good a little make-up can do."

Floeline Deslys, watching the performance in her mirror, smiled a nasty grin and turned to the "Some people are certainly easily encouraged, aren't they?"

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Personal and confidential: The mama of a cutie imported from Europe as leading woman for a certain male star, is being sent home because of too much interference in her blonde daughter's affairs and affairs. "Mamas" and production supervisors are film-dom's most unpopular people. More than one mother of a star has been barred from the studio as a nuisance.

Vilma Banky is now one of Hungary's national heroines, and her success has caused the government to institute movie-making courses in all public schools. No actor ever had a more loyal following than the late Rudolph Valentino.

Roland, et al., have all been tried and found wanting. Anyway, the popularity of the type seems to have passed with Valentino, for now the hairy he-man—George Bancroft, Milton Sills, George O'Brien—who wins the wimmin with brawn rather than smirks and smiles, reigns. The he-man and the collegiate type, as represented by Buddy Rogers and William Haines. On the other hand, the Latin type of woman was never more popular on the screen.

Lola Salvi found that being winner of an Italian national beauty contest didn't mean a thing to movie producers when she journeyed from Rome to Hollywood to seek film fame, and for a year she pined in the shadows of the cameras. Then her beauty stood out in an extra mob and she was picked for leads. Now she's figuring on buying the hamlet her home is in as a present for her folks.

A Valentino club has been organized in Chicago. It will promote the exhibition of old films of the star as a means of obtaining funds to erect a memorial art theater. And United Artists' reports that it continues to receive hundreds of requests for photos of Valentino.

Incidentally, no near successor to Valentino as a portrayal of Latin-lover types has materialized, despite strenuous efforts of producers to uncover one. Ramon Navarro, Don Alvarado, Gilbert

FOUR-H CLUB SHOW WINNERS AT COUNTY FAIR ANNOUNCED

Bruce Bickett, 17, New Jasper Twp., exhibited the first prize Hereford calf, which was also adjudged the grand champion of the 4-H Club calf show at the Greene County Fair which closed last Friday.

Ralph Turner, Beaver Creek Twp., exhibited the first prize Angus calf, and Herbert McKay, Caesar Creek Twp., had the first prize calf in the Shorthorn class for the third time in three straight years.

Robert Smith, Jefferson Twp., won the special prize of a $10 sweater, offered by the Criterion Clothing Store, Xenia, for submitting the best written report of his calf in the club. Another special prize of a hog box, offered by the Adams-Thuma Lumber Co., Jamestown, for the best exhibit in the breeding class of the pig club, went to Darrell Martin, Jefferson Twp.

Nine food and clothing teams were in competition for the trips to the Ohio State Fair. The two free trips were won by the Caesar Creek Food Club, Lucille Stroup and Grace Thomas, receiving the trip; and the Clifton Clothing Club, May Young and Ione Eckman, receiving the trip.

Five Livestock Crops Demonstration Teams also demonstrated. The trip was won by the Poultry Demonstration team from Clifton consisting of Granville Printz and Stewart Corry. These three teams along with the Dairy Calf Judging team will represent Greene County at the state fair.

The expenses of these teams are donated by the business men of Xenia.

Fourteen clothing clubs and six food clubs, representing every township in Greene County, exhibited their work at the county fair.

Other exhibits included the County Dairy Calf Club, of seventeen members; County Beef Club, of fifteen members; Potato Club, of thirteen members; four pig clubs, of twenty-one members; and two poultry clubs, of eighteen members.

Following are the names of the prize winners in each club and the leader in charge.

alliance between league members and utility lobbyists and their alleged influence upon the state legislature.

Numerous members of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, as friends of Congressman Begg, took vigorous exception to the recent issuance by Dr. E. J. Moore, superintendent of the league, of copies of a "sample" ballot which endorsed Cooper's candidacy. These protestants claimed that, due to his record in congress as a dry, Begg was entitled to the league's endorsement on a parity with that accorded Cooper.

Superintendent Moore replied that the endorsement of Cooper was in accord with an agreement, to which Begg was a party, made months ago.

Moore early today had not replied to a letter sent him by Lester D. Hill, Bowling Green, Wood County dry leader, adversely criticizing the league's endorsement of Cooper. Neither had Moore answered an open letter from Rev. P. B. Cuppett, Delaware, asking that the league immediately rescind its endorsement of the candidacy of Congressman Martin L. Davey, Kent, for the Democratic nomination for governor. Declaring that Governor Al Smith, of New York, Democratic candidate for president, was being supported by Davey, Rev. Mr. Cuppett charged that Davey obtained the league's endorsement under false pretenses.

"It is evident you have many policies, but not any principle," Hill wrote Moore.

"You endorse two dry candidates for the short term for U. S. senator (Marshall and Dick) when you called Burton wet on the other side," Moore was requested by Hill to explain whether the League applies one policy to G. O. P. gubernatorial candidates and another to other Republican candidates.

Begg, it was announced, will make addresses this afternoon and tonight at Cleveland while Cooper and Turner are scheduled to talk this afternoon at the Allen County Republican "home coming", in Crites' Grove, near Lima. Cooper also was to speak this forenoon at the Wayne County Fair.

In an address at Akron last night, Begg stated that it was his ambition "not only to help Ohio keep step with the progress being made in other states, but for Ohio to set the pace." He stressed a need for a conservation program, applied one policy to G. O. P. gubernatorial candidates and another to other Republican candidates.

More Charm— no blemishes now

UNDERNEATH a clear, smooth skin, healthy tissues—full of rich, red blood—thrive.

No worry about pimples now. Instead there is a certain satisfaction that gives confidence.

All this because rich, red blood is Nature's way of building and sustaining the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—through the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. I took a course of S.S.S. It cleared my face and back. I think S.S.S. is wonderful. I have told many friends about S.S.S., and they are getting as much benefit as I did."—Miss Ruth Gahn, 1134 Elden Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.
